Soviet Peace Hopes Voiced By Malenkov

Red Square Jammed For Stalin Funeral

MOSCOW, March 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Malenkov placed Joseph Stalin's body in the Lenin tomb today and declared the main task of Stalin's successors is to preserve peace. There was no hint of any change in policy toward Korea, however.

The new Prime Minister delivered the main funeral oration at Red Square services for the fallen leader. Expressing hope that peace may come to pass, he declared such peace must be "supported and confirmed by facts."

What these words meant in terms of deeds the world did not yet know. But it seemed possible the new government might undertake a series of actions soon to dramatize its policies and to show how firmly it grips the wheel of authority.

Conciliatory Addresses

Noticeably, not a word was said in any of the three funeral orations about "Anglo-American aggressors" or "warmongers." From that standpoint, and from Malenkov's repeated emphasis on peace, the addresses were the most conciliatory uttered here in a long time. But Malenkov spoke approvingly of the stubborn battle of the "heroic Korean people" who he said are defending their independence, and of the "courageous fight" of Vietnam.

With the stately funeral march of Chopin, Stalin was borne on a gun carriage in his red-draped coffin from the Hall of Columns to a bier below Lenin's tomb. In oppressive silence, except for the stamping of thousands of feet on the cobblestones in the 12-degree cold, Malenkov, Interior Minister L. P. Beria and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, in that order, pronounced eulogies. Molotov's voice alone appeared to break.

Huge Band Plays Chopin

At a signal the comrades and companions of Stalin descended from the top of the tomb, lifted the casket swiftly and carried it through the iron doors.

A 750-piece band again played Chopin, the chimes of Spassky Tower rang out noon, and then a mighty 30-gun salute boomed out over Moscow and in all the principal cities of the vast Soviet Union. For five minutes the wheels of industry stopped and factory and ships' whistles blew, from Warsaw to the frozen wastes of Kamchatka Peninsula.

The great square was filled with troops in long grey overcoats, bands and thousands of civilians until no one else could be crowded in. At least 10,000 persons were in the stands. At the tribune on the tomb were Malenkov and his associates of party and government. In the tier above them the representatives of foreign governments were arrayed.

No prayers or religious services were pronounced, though prayers were said in Moscow's churches during Stalin's illness and the Russian Orthodox hierarchy, led by Patriarch Alexei, visited the Hall of Columns where he lay in state from the day after his death on Thursday.

Sabre Jets Bag Three Red MIGs

SEOUL, Tuesday, March 10 (AP)—Allied Thunderjets spewed a fiery trail of destruction along the Communist main supply route to the Western Korean Front Monday and Sabre jets reported destroying three MIGs that tried to interfere.

The Fifth Air Force, announcing the latest kills, said possibly five other Red jets were damaged in morning air battles over Northwest Korea.

Stiff ground fighting erupted along the Central Front where the Eighth Army said "the enemy continued pressure." One outpost was lost northwest of Kumhwa in a company-sized (175-man) Chinese Red hand grenade attack. An Allied counter-attack recaptured it. The Communists lost an estimated 66 men killed or wounded.

Smaller Red stabs were reported in the Triangle Hill-Sniper Ridge area and near Panmunjom on the Western Front. Near Old Baldy, southwest of Chorwon, the Reds closed from three sides on an Allied patrol and opened up with artillery and mortar fire in an effort to cut off its escape. Reinforcements helped the patrol battle its way out.

Search Pressed For Sex Maniac In Girls' Slaying

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Bloodhounds bayed along wild mountain trails almost within sight of Manhattan's skyscrapers today in a bitter search for the sex slayer of two little girls.

"We will never stop until we break this case," vowed Abe Stern, police chief of nearby Ramapo. "It takes precedence over everything. This was definitely the deed of a sex maniac."

The pitiful bodies of the two attractive children were found yesterday after they disappeared from a snow-blanketed playground at a big privately-financed school for underprivileged children.

The older girl, Marjorie Boudreau, a pretty, brunette 8-year-old, was beaten to death, her skull smashed with a stone or some similar object.

The other, Esther Nagy, a but- ton-cute 5-year-old blonde, was stabbed in the back.

Dr. Maximilian J. Moses, Rockland County coroner, announced after an autopsy that both children were victims of a savage sodomite, who also tried to strangle them.

The girls were dressed alike in dungarees, T-shirts, windbreakers, snowsuit pants and tasseled hats with bows under the chin.

Esther's father, Brown Nagy, said his child was sent to the Lakeside School to get her off New York's dangerous streets and keep her safe.

The father, a Bronx widower, wept hysterically and said of the killer: "God help me find him. I'll kill him. Why did he have to kill mine?"

The perverted slayer, striking in the waning sunlight of a winter afternoon, apparently stripped the children of their clothes then carefully redressed them after the attacks.

Little Esther's gay red boots were missing and were found in blood-soaked grass and leaves about 15 feet from her small body.

The two little girls were struck down about 300 yards apart where they wandered—or were lured—half a mile from a school playground that echoed to the childish cries and laughter of some 35 playmates.

The Sultan commuted her death sentence to life imprisonment and opened the way for British government reconsideration of Communist Hungary's offer to release an imprisoned British businessman in exchange for her freedom.

Priest officials refused to tell the tiny, 25-year-old ringleader of the Communist terrorist movement in Malaya of her reprieve, saying they had not been officially instructed. Her lawyers said their telegram informing her of the news had been stopped by prison authorities.

She had been sentenced to hang for carrying a live grenade, a capital offense under emergency laws against terrorists here. Police also blamed her for 13 murders around Ipoh, a tin-mining center which is a hotbed of Chinese Communist activity in this British-controlled state.

Hungary, possibly on direct orders from Moscow, recently proposed to trade Lee Meng for Edgar Sanders, a Briton serving a 13-year prison sentence in Hungary on espionage charges. He was convicted along with an American, Robert Vogler, whose release was negotiated by the U. S. government two years ago.

He said it will be up to the Senate Armed Services Committee to decide whether it wants to broaden its investigation of alleged ammunition shortages in Korea.

Queen Mary Improves—LONDON, March 9 (AP)—Royal doctors reported tonight a "slight improvement" in the condition of Queen Mary, ill for a fortnight with a gastric complaint.

Governor Will Sign Measure

ANNAPOLIS, March 9 (AP)—The House tonight enacted legislation allowing Maryland public school teachers pay raises up to $300. Unanimous action by 97 delegates present sent the measure to Gov. McKeldin, who has promised he will sign it.

The vote ended three years of waiting by the state's 14,000 teachers, who have had to rely on their own county governments and Baltimore City to provide more than the state-guaranteed minimum.

McKeldin vetoed acts of the 1951 and 1952 Legislatures proposing $300 raises. He contended they would require hiking state taxes, that not all teachers would benefit and that the problem was mainly one for the subdivisions anyway.

He reacted favorably when a commission headed by Harry J. Green, Baltimore attorney, recommended increases that share the cost between the state and local governments.

One Senator Objected

The Green Commission's bill was the one passed by the House. The Senate passed it earlier, with only Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County) objecting. Turnbull said he wanted to give teachers more money, but insisted it was a county responsibility.

McKeldin already had allowed about $1,200,000 in the 1953-54 budget to give effect to the Green Commission's program.

It amounts to this: For the next two years, the state-supported salary will be boosted from $2,200-$3,800 to $2,500-$4,300. In that period, the state will put up whatever is necessary to fill the deficit between salaries now paid and those set out in the state.

Rates To Jump In 1955—Thus a teacher in a county which has appropriated enough from its own treasury to start a teacher at $2,400 will get only $100 additional from the state.

In 1955, the rates will jump another $300 all the way up the experience ladder. Then the counties will receive "equalization" funds from the state only to balance what they may raise from 75 cents on their tax rates with what is necessary to fulfill state teacher standards. The requirement now is only 65 cents.

Tax-Reduction Plan's Timeliness Questioned—ANNAPOLIS, March 9 (AP)—State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles said today the Legislature must run the risk of having to raise taxes with one hand if it adopts a plan for using surplus revenues to cut taxes with the other.

Miles said he thoroughly approved the theory of a measure now before the Senate to allot state receipts over estimates to reduce real estate and income levies.

But he added: "I do question the timeliness of adopting it now." The plan, patterned after Virginia's automatic tax reduction system, was proposed by 11 Democratic senators to begin next year. It would eliminate any surplus which accumulates in the fiscal year beginning July 1 as a fund to balance the budget for 1954-55.

'Substantial' T-H Changes Likely, Sen. Taft Asserts

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said after a White House conference today that chances appear good for making "substantial" changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law.

It apparently was decided at the meeting with President Eisenhower and legislative leaders, including chairmen of the House and Senate Labor Committees, that no attempt would be made to draft amendments until present hearings are completed.

Taft, the Senate's majority leader and principal author of the present labor-management law, said the administration intends to leave the matter of framing T-H amendments largely up to the congressional committees.

This means that the Eisenhower administration has no present plans for submitting any proposed amendments in the near future.

Confirmed By Durkin

Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin, who also attended today's conference, confirmed this, saying he has given up the idea of having a Labor Department advisory committee—composed of representatives of industry, labor unions and the public—seek a compromise of varying views about the Taft-Hartley law.

The advisory group broke up last week after a hot argument on how to proceed. Chairman McConnell (R-Pa) of the House Labor Committee said Durkin probably will confer frequently and privately with congressional leaders.

Durkin said he still may make some recommendations on changing the law after the congressional hearings get further along. However, Taft told newsmen it was quite possible the administration may never come up with an amending bill of its own.

About 15 Changes Seen—Taft declined to amplify what he meant about accomplishing "substantial" changes in the present law. He said he thought Congress and the administration would eventually agree on about 15 changes—some only of a "procedural character."

The Senate leader already has offered several bills that would fit that description. One of Taft's proposals would increase the membership of the National Labor Relations Board from five to seven. Another would require non-Communist affidavits from employers as well as from union leaders. A third would liberalize present T-H procedures in the construction industry.

18 Firefighters Injured—Eighteen men were hurt fighting the blaze, 12 of them hospitalized. One was in critical condition.

Fire Chief J. Ludie Croom said of the damage: "Conservatively, I'd say it will go into 10 million dollars." W. R. S. Beane, president of Heide Warehouse Company, said the damage "may run as high as 20 million."

The fire broke out shortly before 9 a. m. in a warehouse of the Wilmington Terminal Company. It was reported that sparks from an electric line on which an electrician was working set off stores of nitrate. One major explosion blew off the roof of a warehouse, showering flaming nitrates over the area.

Four Warehouses Burn—Four brick and wood warehouses fronting on the Cape Fear River burned to their foundations despite frantic work by six Wilmington fire companies, seven from neighboring communities, and a fire boat.

Several other buildings were damaged. Long stretches of docks were destroyed. One warehouse was packed with an estimated million dollars worth of sugar.

Senate Votes To Keep GI Allotment System—WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Senate today passed a bill to keep the GI allotment system for food and clothing.

The Senate today passed a bill extending to July 1, 1955, the system under which service personnel may make allotments to their wives, children and other dependents.

The system is due to expire April 30 this year. The House will take up a similar measure Wednesday. It already has been approved by the House Armed Services Committee.

U.S.-Financed Ships Trade With Reds, McCarthy Says—WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today the United States holds mortgages on 96 foreign-flag ships hauling cargoes to Red China and other countries behind the Iron Curtain.

McCarthy announced that his Senate investigations subcommittee will conduct a full-scale public inquiry to determine how the U. S.-financed ships were permitted to engage in trade with Soviet bloc nations.

The Wisconsin senator said Foreign Aid Chief Harold E. Stassen and Maritime Administration officials will be called to testify at the outset of the inquiry.

Stassen's Mutual Security Agency has primary responsibility for enforcing the Battle Act, which calls for suspending American aid to countries selling strategic materials to the Communists.

McCarthy said in a statement that the 96 ships—described as being all large dry-cargo vessels left over as surplus from World War II—were sold to foreigners on mortgages by the old U. S. Maritime Commission.

The senator said this country now holds 25 million dollars in mortgages on the vessels. "Of these ships, 52 are registered in Greece, 40 in Italy and four in France," McCarthy said.

"Those ships have made a total of 183 voyages behind the Iron Curtain—78 to Communist China and 105 to Soviet bloc ports in Europe.

"The use of those mortgaged vessels in the China trade places the United States in the incongruous position of financing ships which are carrying materials to the Chinese Communists, who are furnishing men and supplies to fight us in Korea."

Mrs. Eleanor Bonus, 53, a victim of chronic leukemia reported by doctors in the final weeks of her life, gives testimony to Judge George A. Dockweiler (center), who granted her an interlocutory decree yesterday from her husband of 30 years on cruelty charges. Unable to make the trip to court, the judge and her attorney, Paul Gordon (right) arranged to hold the session at her bedside in Los Angeles in order to legalize a property settlement in favor of her eight children.

Costly Fire Hits Wilmington, N. C., Waterfront Area

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 9 (AP)—A multi-million dollar fire raged along Wilmington's waterfront today, setting off chemical explosions that shook this port city of 45,000.

Roaring out of control for hours, the flames fanned into an inferno by a stiff wind, the fire ate steadily through the lined up warehouses storing nitrates, sugar and tobacco.

Dense smoke covered the business district a mile away and in the path of the spreading fire. Firemen finally brought it under control just short of a big warehouse full of sodium nitrate, a highly inflammable chemical used in fertilizer.

18 Firefighters Injured—Eighteen men were hurt fighting the blaze, 12 of them hospitalized. One was in critical condition.

Fire Chief J. Ludie Croom said of the damage: "Conservatively, I'd say it will go into 10 million dollars." W. R. S. Beane, president of Heide Warehouse Company, said the damage "may run as high as 20 million."

Bridges Wins Review Of Case

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that union printers may set "bogus" type—and be paid for it—without violating the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The court split 6 to 3 on the case, which was brought before it by the American Newspaper Publishers Association on appeal from a decision of the U. S. Circuit Court in Chicago.

Under newspaper agreements with the International Typographical Union, "bogus" type is set to duplicate advertising matter received in matrix form. It is destroyed without being used.

Gambler Tax Upheld—In other major cases today the court:

1. Upheld, 6 to 3, the validity of a 1951 federal law requiring gamblers to register and buy a $50 tax stamp.

2. By the same vote, held that musicians' union demands for work in a theater, whose manager said he did not want or need the music, likewise did not violate the Taft-Hartley Act.

3. Agreed to review the perjury-conspiracy conviction of Harry Bridges, left-wing West Coast labor union leader.

4. Upheld the U. S. Court of Appeals here in throwing out the contempt-of-Congress conviction of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc.

Psychiatrist Loses—5. Turned down a plea by Dr. Stanley J. Orloff, a psychiatrist, that it order the Army to discharge him or give him a commission.

Orloff claimed he was illegally classified as a private after being taken into the Army under the doctors' draft law.

In the gamblers' tax case, the court said the law was constitutional.

Hawaii Statehood Bill Draws Fire Of Dixie Demos

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Southern Democrats led the opposition to statehood for Hawaii today as Republican leaders sought to push the bill through the House for the third time.

Hawaii's geographical position, 2,000 miles from the mainland, the size and Oriental complexion of its population and the threat of communism were points raised during debate to bar the admission of Hawaii as the 49th state.

In the background was a rumbling of Democratic resentment over failure of the Eisenhower administration to get behind the drive for Alaska statehood at the same time the Hawaii bill is up for action.

The vote on Hawaii is expected tomorrow. The House passed the bill in 1947 and again in 1950, but the Senate failed to act.

Chairman Allen (R-Ill) of the House Rules Committee presented Hawaii's case for statehood as a "non-partisan" issue. But Rep. McCormack (D-Mass), the Democratic whip, noted that Democrats in the last Congress brought up bills for both Hawaii and Alaska, while only the Hawaii bill is being pressed now.

Chairman Miller (R-Neb) of the House Interior Committee said hearings will be held on Alaska statehood and another bill to permit Alaskans to elect their own governor, beginning April 14.

The Alaska hearing could not be held earlier, Miller said, because the territorial legislature is about to convene.

End Of Stalin Era Removes Major Hurdle

U. S. Plans No New Cold War Strategy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the removal of the "malignant power of Stalin" has given the world a better chance for peace.

Answering questions at his first conference here since becoming secretary of state, Dulles said Stalin's desire to be a world-wide despot put a damper on peace aspirations of peoples and nations. He said he did not believe any successor to Stalin can be so effective a damper.

Dulles also said the U. S. government does not at present plan any new tactics or strategy in the cold war.

Plans Mid-East Tour

The secretary announced he hopes to make a fact-finding tour of Middle East and South Asian countries in May. He said the U. S. has no plans to ask the U. N. to undertake any new action in Korea at this time; he hopes other U. N. members will continue to be aware of the need for general and equitable participations in the Korean War; relations between Moscow and Peking would be determined by those countries with there being little the U. S. could do to influence them.

Dulles later told ranking delegates of all Latin American countries at a private luncheon that he hopes to visit Latin America as soon as possible. He did not mention any date. He also assured the Latin American representatives that President Eisenhower intends to maintain close and friendly relations with their countries.

Eisenhower Era Begins—The conference opened with a formal statement:

"The Eisenhower era begins as the Stalin era ends. For 10 years, the world has been dominated by the malignant power of Stalin... now Stalin is dead. He cannot bequeath to anyone his prestige.

"As Stalin dies, Gen. Eisenhower, the man who liberated Western Europe, has become president of our great republic, with a prestige unmatched in history. A new era begins, one in which the guiding spirit is liberty, not enslavement, and when human relations will be domination. Then, in the words of our U. N. Charter preamble, the nations, large and small, may come to enjoy equal rights and dignity and peace.

"That is the Eisenhower faith which I share and seek to serve."

Dulles answered almost all questions but no direct quotations were permitted except for the formal statement.

Velde Says Committee May Investigate Red Influence In Churches—WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Chairman Velde (R-Ill) said tonight his House Un-American Activities Committee may investigate alleged communist influences in churches—but probably not this year.

Right now, Velde said in a radio interview, the committee has its hands full looking into other phases of communism.

"The investigation would be in the field of individuals rather than the churches themselves," he added, indicating that the committee also may investigate organizations affiliated with some churches.

Velde said the committee is now probing for communism in colleges and universities "for the benefit of the colleges themselves and the people—and we would be doing the same thing in relation to churches."

Such a broadened scope for the House group, Velde declared, "would be to determine whether the American Communist party, through its membership, is attempting to destroy religion in this country—by infiltration and by external means."

Chiang's Ships In Raid—TAIPEI, Formosa, March 9 (AP)—The official Central News Agency said tonight that Chinese Nationalist warships steamed up close and attacked Communist craft in Swatow Harbor, opposite Formosa, a week ago.

The report gave no idea of the type or size of Communist craft attacked but said one was captured and others heavily damaged.

IPOH, Perak, Malaya, March 9 (AP)—Lee Meng, the Chinese girl guerrilla leader the Communists tried to save by bartering with the British government, slept in prison tonight not knowing her life had been spared by the Sultan of Perak.

ANNAPOLIS, March 9 (AP)—State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles said today the Legislature must run the risk of having to raise taxes with one hand if it adopts a plan for using surplus revenues to cut taxes with the other.

Miles said he thoroughly approved the theory of a measure now before the Senate to allot state receipts over estimates to reduce real estate and income levies.

But he added: "I do question the timeliness of adopting it now."

The plan, patterned after Virginia's automatic tax reduction system, was proposed by 11 Democratic senators to begin next year. It would eliminate any surplus which accumulates in the fiscal year beginning July 1 as a fund to balance the budget for 1954-55.

'Substantial' T-H Changes Likely, Sen. Taft Asserts

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said after a White House conference today that chances appear good for making "substantial" changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law.

It apparently was decided at the meeting with President Eisenhower and legislative leaders, including chairmen of the House and Senate Labor Committees, that no attempt would be made to draft amendments until present hearings are completed.

Taft, the Senate's majority leader and principal author of the present labor-management law, said the administration intends to leave the matter of framing T-H amendments largely up to the congressional committees.

This means that the Eisenhower administration has no present plans for submitting any proposed amendments in the near future.

Confirmed By Durkin

Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin, who also attended today's conference, confirmed this, saying he has given up the idea of having a Labor Department advisory committee—composed of representatives of industry, labor unions and the public—seek a compromise of varying views about the Taft-Hartley law.

The advisory group broke up last week after a hot argument on how to proceed. Chairman McConnell (R-Pa.) of the House Labor Committee said Durkin probably will confer frequently and privately with congressional leaders.

Durkin said he still may make some recommendations on changing the law after the congressional hearings get further along. However, Taft told newsmen it was quite possible the administration may never come up with an amending bill of its own.

About 15 Changes Seen

Taft declined to amplify what he meant about accomplishing "substantial" changes in the present law. He said he thought Congress and the administration would eventually agree on about 15 changes—some only of a "procedural character."

The Senate leader already has offered several bills that would fit that description. One of Taft's proposals would increase the membership of the National Labor Relations Board from five to seven. Another would require non-Communist affidavits from employers as well as from union leaders. A third would liberalize present T-H procedures in the construction industry.

Prospects Fade For War Probe

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Prospects of a new and sweeping investigation of Korean War strategy receded today as Senate Majority Leader Taft of Ohio announced he would not press for the probe in the face of congressional opposition.

But a new demand arose in the House for action on reported shortages of ammunition in Korea.

Rep. Brown (R-Ohio), declaring "the time has come to do something about it," said in a House speech:

"Let's place the responsibility where it belongs."

He added that there is "nothing sacred or sacrosanct about those who serve in the Pentagon."

Both Republican and Democratic members of Congress have objected to any all-encompassing inquiry of Korean War strategy on the ground that it would give the enemy vital information and interfere with the military leaders who are conducting the fighting.

Taft suggested an expanded probe Saturday, but he told reporters today he was not announcing a new policy and "I have no desire to force another investigation."

He said it will be up to the Senate Armed Services Committee to decide whether it wants to broaden its investigation of alleged ammunition shortages in Korea.

Costly Fire Hits Wilmington, N. C., Waterfront Area

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 9 (AP)—A multi-million dollar fire raged along Wilmington's waterfront today, setting off chemical explosions that shook this port city of 45,000.

Roaring out of control for hours, the flames fanned into an inferno by a stiff wind, the fire ate steadily through the lined up warehouses storing nitrates, sugar and tobacco.

Dense smoke covered the business district a mile away and in the path of the spreading fire. Firemen finally brought it under control just short of a big warehouse full of sodium nitrate, a highly inflammable chemical used in fertilizer.

18 Firefighters Injured

Eighteen men were hurt fighting the blaze, 12 of them hospitalized. One was in critical condition.

Fire Chief J. Ludie Croom said of the damage: "Conservatively, I'd say it will go into 10 million dollars." W. R. S. Beane, president of Heide Warehouse Company, said the damage "may run as high as 20 million."

The fire broke out shortly before 9 a. m. in a warehouse of the Wilmington Terminal Company. It was reported that sparks from an electric line on which an electrician was working set off stores of nitrate. One major explosion blew off the roof of a warehouse, showering flaming nitrates over the area.

Four Warehouses Burn

Four brick and wood warehouses fronting on the Cape Fear River burned to their foundations despite frantic work by six Wilmington fire companies, seven from neighboring communities, and a fire boat.

Several other buildings were damaged. Long stretches of docks were destroyed.

One warehouse was packed with an estimated million dollars worth of sugar.

Senate Votes To Keep GI Allotment System

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Senate today passed the GI Allotment System.

The Senate today passed a bill extending to July 1, 1955, the system under which service personnel may make allotments to their wives, children and other dependents.

The system is due to expire April 30 this year.

The House will take up a similar measure Wednesday. It already has been approved by the House Armed Services Committee.

Bridges Wins Review Of Case

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that union printers may set "bogus" type—and be paid for it—without violating the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The court split 6 to 3 on the case, which was brought before it by the American Newspaper Publishers Association on appeal from a decision of the U. S. Circuit Court in Chicago.

Under newspaper agreements with the International Typographical Union, "bogus" type is set to duplicate advertising matter received in matrix form. It is destroyed without being used.

Gambler Tax Upheld

In other major cases today the court:

1. Upheld, 6 to 3, the validity of a 1951 federal law requiring gamblers to register and buy a $50 tax stamp.

2. By the same vote, held that musicians' union demands for work in a theater, whose manager said he did not want or need the music, likewise did not violate the Taft-Hartley Act.

3. Agreed to review the perjury-conspiracy conviction of Harry Bridges, left-wing West Coast labor union leader.

4. Upheld the U. S. Court of Appeals here in throwing out the contempt-of-Congress conviction of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc.

Hawaii Statehood Bill Draws Fire Of Dixie Demos

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Southern Democrats led the opposition to statehood for Hawaii today as Republican leaders sought to push the bill through the House for the third time.

Hawaii's geographical position 2,000 miles from the mainland, the size and Oriental complexion of its population and the threat of communism were points raised during debate to bar the admission of Hawaii as the 49th state.

In the background was a rumbling of Democratic resentment over failure of the Eisenhower administration to get behind the drive for Alaska statehood at the same time the Hawaii bill is up for action.

The vote on Hawaii is expected tomorrow. The House passed the bill in 1947 and again in 1950, but the Senate failed to act.

Chairman Allen (R-Ill.) of the House Rules Committee presented Hawaii's case for statehood as a "non-partisan" issue. But Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.), the Democratic whip, noted that Democrats in the last Congress brought up bills for both Hawaii and Alaska, while only the Hawaii bill is being pressed now.

Chairman Miller (R-Neb.) of the House Interior Committee said hearings will be held on Alaska statehood and another bill to permit Alaskans to elect their own governor, beginning April 14.

The Alaska hearing could not be held earlier, Miller said, because the territorial legislature is about (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

End Of Stalin Era Removes Major Hurdle

U. S. Plans No New Cold War Strategy

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the removal of the "malignant power of Stalin" has given the world a better chance for peace.

Answering questions at his first conference here since becoming secretary of state, Dulles said Stalin's desire to be a world-wide despot put a damper on peace aspirations of peoples and nations. He said he did not believe any successor to Stalin can be so effective a damper.

Dulles also said the U. S. government does not at present plan any new tactics or strategy in the cold war.

Plans Mid-East Tour

The secretary announced he hopes to make a fact-finding tour of Middle East and South Asian countries in May. He said the U. S. has no plans to ask the U. N. to undertake any new action in Korea at this time; he hopes other U. N. members will continue to be aware of the need for general and equitable participations in the Korean War; relations between Moscow and Peking would be determined by those countries with there being little the U. S. could do to influence them.

Dulles later told ranking delegates of all Latin American countries at a private luncheon that he hopes to visit Latin America as soon as possible. He did not mention any date. He also assured the Latin American representatives that President Eisenhower intends to maintain close and friendly relations with their countries.

Eisenhower Era Begins

The conference opened with a formal statement:

"The Eisenhower era begins as the Stalin era ends. For 10 years, the world has been dominated by the malignant power of Stalin . . . now Stalin is dead. He cannot bequeath to anyone his prestige."

"As Stalin dies, Gen. Eisenhower, the man who liberated Western Europe, has become president of our great republic, with a prestige unmatched in history. A new era begins, one in which the guiding spirit is liberty, not enslavement, and when human relations will be dominated. Then, in the words of our U. N. Charter preamble, the nations, large and small, may come to enjoy equal rights and dignity and peace."

"That is the Eisenhower faith which I share and seek to serve."

Dulles answered almost all questions but no direct quotations were permitted except for the formal statement.

Velde Says Committee May Investigate Red Influence In Churches

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Chairman Velde (R-Ill.) said tonight his House Un-American Activities Committee may investigate alleged communist influences in churches—but probably not this year.

Right now, Velde said in a radio interview, the committee has its hands full looking into other phases of communism.

"The investigation would be in the field of individuals rather than the churches themselves," he added, indicating that the committee also may investigate organizations affiliated with some churches.

Velde said the committee is now probing for communism in colleges and universities "for the benefit of the colleges themselves and the people—and we would be doing the same thing in relation to churches."

Such a broadened scope for the House group, Velde declared, "would be to determine whether the American Communist party, through its membership, is attempting to destroy religion in this country—by infiltration and by external means."

Chiang's Ships In Raid

TAIPEH, Formosa, March 9 (AP)—The official Central News Agency said tonight that Chinese Nationalist warships steamed up close and attacked Communist craft in Swatow Harbor, opposite Formosa, a week ago.

The report gave no idea of the type or size of Communist craft attacked but said one was captured and others heavily damaged.

Parents Charge Four Youngsters Killed By Drug

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP)—Parents of four children filed damage suits in Federal Court today, alleging that use of the antibiotic, chloromycetin, caused the deaths of the youngsters.

The suits ask a total of $332,063 in damages. Parke, Davis & Company, a Michigan corporation, was named defendant.

The complaints allege that the antibiotic produced a deadly form of anemia after being used by physicians to combat virus diseases.

"The plaintiffs are informed and believe and therefore so allege," said a complaint filed by Dr. Franklin Farman and his wife Mary, "that chloromycetin is a dangerous drug and has caused the death of numerous persons."

Dr. Farman and his wife, of Whittier, Calif., ask $26,341 damages for the death of their daughter, Mary Ann, 4, last June.

Other plaintiffs and amounts sought:

Robert Slaughter, Los Angeles, and his former wife, Marie Newkirk, $101,972.78 for the death of their daughter Rosemary, 12, last August.

Dr. and Mrs. Albe M. Watkins, La Canada, Calif., $101,951.38 for the death of their son James Michael, 10, last May.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Engel, Los Angeles, $101,798 for the death of their son Joseph Gerhardt Engel, 6, in February, 1952.

Break For Oldster As Tippy Driving Fine Suspended

HYATTSVILLE, Md., March 9 (AP)—An 83-year-old motorist drew a $1,000 drunk driving fine here today, but it was suspended on condition that he never drive in Maryland again.

Arrested after wrecking his auto against a pole, J. A. Dobson of Branchville, Md., was brought into Hyattsville Police Court not only on the driving while drunk charge, but also on charges of reckless driving, driving without a license and not having registration papers with him.

Hyattsville Police Private Charles William testified that Dobson told him after the accident "this is my night to howl." It was broad daylight at the time.

Way Is Cleared For Legislators' Expense Fund

ANNAPOLIS, March 9 (AP)—The state's top legal advisers approved tonight a $600 expense allowance for legislators, provided they turn in accounts just like any traveling man.

The ruling by Atty-Gen. E.D.E. Rollins and Asst. Atty-Gen. Joseph D. Buscher cleared up a problem perplexing the lawmakers since the House voted to give its members a $600 allowance almost two weeks ago.

Senators have been considering the same proposition, with most reported in favor.

Imprisonment Of Felons At Hard Labor Urged By Md. Senate Group

ANNAPOLIS, March 9 (AP)—A special Legislative Crime Committee today recommended Maryland adopt the system of punishing a person convicted of a violent crime with imprisonment at hard labor.

"It is recognized by the committee that this would be contrary to the trend in most of the states of this country," the report said.

"Nevertheless, the committee believes that this trend may be partly responsible for the present-day increase in crimes of violence."

The five senators made their study after a rash of knifings, attacks and murders swept through the Baltimore area recently.

The committee also suggested that a husband who refuses to support his family be made to work while confined, and turn his pay

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—The bodies of a woman with her throat slashed and a man dangling from a rope were found today in a suite of London's plush Ritz Hotel.

Authorities said the couple had registered last night as Pierre and Eileen de Laitre of Rue la Condamine, Paris.

The senators backed extending the definition of weapons to include penknives with blades more than 2½ inches long.

They also hit at the result of wholesale loitering. "One of the most serious policing problems today is what to do with groups of people who loiter about places of public entertainment and amusement and taverns," the report said.

Senate Confirms Cole To Be Housing Chief

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—By a vote of 64 to 18, the Senate today approved President Eisenhower's nomination of Albert M. Cole as housing and home finance administrator.

Two Republicans—Cooper (Ky.) and Tobey (NH)—joined with 15 Democrats and one independent, Morse (Ore.), in voting against Cole.

Critics of the nomination cited that Cole, as a Republican member of the House from Kansas, voted in 1949 against the law under which the HHA carries on its multiple functions of public housing, slum clearance, federal mortgage insurance and other items.

Retired Baltimore & Ohio R. R. Engineer Returns Here To Live

A former local B&O Railroad worker, who retired recently after almost 50 years service, has returned to Cumberland to reside. He is H. H. Harper, 68, a native of Hedgesville, W. Va., who started his career on the B&O on the East End of the Cumberland Division January 9, 1904 as a fireman. He was promoted to engineer December 29, 1908.

In 1922 he was promoted to assistant road foreman of engines, a position he occupied on the Cumberland and Connellsville Divisions until 1932 when the job was abolished due to the depression. Following this Mr. Harper was a passenger engineer between Cumberland and Washington until 1936 when he was made assistant trainmaster of the East End here.

In June, 1937, he was made assistant road foreman of engines on the Baltimore Division. He held this post until May 1, 1941, when he was named road foreman of engines on the Toledo Division.

This was the position Mr. Harper held when he retired recently. On February 21 over 300 B&O employees attended a testimonial dinner for Mr. Harper at Dayton, his headquarters for 12 years. He was praised by railroad officials for his contributions to the safety of the line. He was also commended for his work as a member of the superintendent's committee on smoke prevention and air pollution in the cities of Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, and Detroit.

On June 25, 1911, he married Miss Marie A. Mackenroth, of Baltimore. They have one daughter, Mrs. Lucille Durrett, and two grandchildren. Mr. Harper and his wife will reside at 216 Emily Street within sight of the railroad for which he worked for so long.

The veteran railroad says he regards Cumberland as his "home town," and has been enjoying the early weeks of his retirement by recounting the "good old days" with friends he made during his years of service here.

City's Funds For Donations Reported As Running Low

Commissioner William V. Keegan noted yesterday morning that a lot of people have been sick in Cumberland "but so is the contingent fund."

The commissioner, speaking at the meeting of the Mayor and Council, explained requests for donations, ads in programs and the like would have to be reduced, because the fund has dropped to $14.50.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson was asked to advise council on the situation. Gibson said the city had been unable to place the amount of money into the fund because of large appropriations to departments. The amount was $8,000 but a large slice — $3,500 — went to the Cumberland Industrial Exposition. With fixed charges in the fund and other donations, the amount shrank to about $14 in January, he said.

Two Requests For Ads
This may be augmented slightly by sale of city-owned lots, but he said if any requests are granted

now the account will be overdrawn. Keegan brought the matter up because of two requests from the Junior Association of Commerce and Cumberland Aerie 247 Fraternal Order of Eagles for ads in programs. The two requests totaled $105.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, suggested that Keegan send a letter to the organizations explaining that the Mayor and Council will attempt to meet the request by May 1, and added that perhaps it can be arranged for Memorial Hospital to take over a salary paid one of its employees out of the fund. That will amount to $600 to the end of the fiscal year, Gibson said.

Suggestion Withdrawn
Earlier, Commissioner John J. Long had suggested taking the $105 from the Police and Fire budget, providing the amount would be reimbursed if needed. He later withdrew this motion as the discussion developed, and asked if the amount could come from the smoke control budget. Commissioner Lucille W. Roeder questioned if a precedent would not be set by the action.

Keegan said he favored the two requests but didn't want to go on record for them since funds are not available. It was pointed out sale of lots will probably bring in $300 by May 1, but the salary of the hospital employee amounts to $600 until the end of the fiscal year.

Legion To Fete Howard Spiker

Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, will honor a member of the Post, Howard M. Spiker, by naming a class of candidates after him as part of the activities planned for the Legion "birthday" celebration.

Long active in Legion affairs, Spiker is a past commander of Fort Cumberland Post and chairman of the disaster and relief committee for the Department of Maryland. Spiker, captain of the winning team in the recent membership campaign, was one of the two post members who qualified in the "100 Club," signifying the signing up of that number of members during the drive.

The Spiker class will include 75 candidates and will be a feature of the celebration Tuesday, March 17. Final arrangements for the program will be made at a meeting today at 8 p. m. at the Post Home.

Robert E. Wilson, Post commander, said a nominating committee would also be announced at tonight's meeting.

B&O Has Two Tracks Ready

Two of the three tracks being laid by the B&O Railroad Company as part of the Thomas Street yard expansion program have been tied into the rest of the system, according to Edward J. Clouton, Cumberland Division engineer.

Clouton said trains started to use the new tracks Friday. The trains are operating at slow speed on the trackage as a safety measure. It was explained that the tracks have not yet been settled into final position.

Work on the third track is progressing and will be completed shortly, Clouton said. Each section of track is about 2,900 feet long and they are located along the main tracks of the line.

A huge section of land was excavated along Thomas Street for the project. A number of homes were razed and a section of the street relocated to make room for the improvements.

Clouton said the new tracks have been installed at a more gradual curvature than the ones formerly in use. The tracks will eliminate a bottleneck in this area.

Mayor, Council Approve Job In City Finance Department

Miss Marian Howdyshell will be clerk-stenographer in the Finance Department under an order approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday. Salary will be $192.50 a month, effective March 16.

Miss Howdyshell, a city employee in the registration office, finished first on a recent Civil Service test for the clerk-stenographer post.

The job appointment is for the tax collector's office and creation of the job at the salary approved had been questioned by Mrs. Lucille W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

Mrs. Roeder Approves
Mrs. Roeder, in joining unanimous approval of the appointment yesterday, said she would vote for Miss Howdyshell and wanted it understood her opposition had been only over the amount of salary.

Council also approved appointment of Charles R. Scarlett as draftsman in the Engineering Department. His salary will be $310 monthly and was effective yesterday.

Boost In Magistrates' Pay Gets Approval Of Council

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved an increase in the amount paid city trial magistrates by $7.50 a month.

That increased the base pay from $75 to $82.50 under the order introduced by Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

Previously magistrates had received $900 from the city and $3,600 from the state annually, or $4,500. The city raise boosts that to $4,600.

A number of routine orders and reports came before the council today.

Commissioner William J. Edwards was authorized to ask for bids on a carload of six-inch cast iron pipe for the Water Department.

Two Signs Approved
Approval for hanging two Muslim signs across Baltimore Street at Mechanic and Park Streets to call attention to the merchants "Park and Shop" plan was granted at request of William Kaldor of Community Parking lots. The signs will be under jurisdiction of the police chief.

Commissioner Long was designated to represent the city at a meeting of the Armed Forces Day

Scarlett was certified eligible for appointment in another list submitted the council by the commission yesterday.

Names of eligibles for police and fire appointment on the list include: Police—Wilbur E. Shank, James W. Bolyard, Frank R. Bohn, John W. Whetzel and John H. McCarty; Firemen—Richard W. Mawhinney, Albert J. Snyder, Charles A. Nave, Robert T. Storer, James W. Sisk, Harold S. Hersberger and John E. Trost.

The Civil Service list was accepted and ordered posted.

Reel Gets Post
Glenwood (Tag) Reel received permanent appointment as full-time worker in the Recreation Department on recommendation of the Recreation Board and Director Robert E. Pence.

Reel has served in that capacity temporarily for eight months and Pence commended him for his work. Reel will be paid $1.40 an hour not to exceed $252 a month unless an increase in pay is given.

Committee Monday, March 23, at 8 p. m. in the office of Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman.

Long reported his department made 1,047 arrests and collected fines of $1,090 in February. The Fire Department responded to 38 calls and damage was considerable, he added.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said the Health Department reported 27 communicable diseases, held 19 dental clinics with 95 patients and recorded 128 births and 59 deaths.

The Skysweeper

The Army has proudly unveiled a new gun for anti-aircraft defense which seems to come close to the ultimate: Pushbutton warfare. Apparently this new "Skysweeper" is a refinement on an earlier model which had possibilities but a few bugs in it.

The new Skysweeper is a complete package. That is, it consists of a 10-ton barrel, breech, base, and carriage, while the auto loading magazines and the radar control are part of the same unit. The radar antenna, which restlessly scans the full 180-degree sweep of the horizon once every 40 seconds, is separate but small enough to be highly portable.

The new gun demonstrates malevolent accuracy in tracking a plane zipping overhead. With no human being near it, the gun picks up the plane, swings its muzzle to the proper lead—the preciseness of which every duck hunter will appreciate—and pumps 45 rounds of high explosive shells into the plane during the course of one minute.

The caliber—75 mm—makes it a smaller weapon than the Army's standard 90 mm gun, and therefore the former's range, presumably, isn't as great, but no doubt still effective at altitudes of three or four miles. As modern bombing runs go, this is a "medium level" run. Presumably the Army will re-equip anti-aircraft batteries with these guns as fast as they are available.

The new gun doesn't make the nation's defense screen against enemy air attack impenetrable. The radar that is the eyes of this gun has inherent faults—there are blind spots at low altitudes, and it is susceptible to enemy jamming. But until such time as high altitude ground-to-air homing missiles are perfected, there is no point in complacency.

Even in the latter eventuality the balance will only be temporarily with defense. For that is the way with a weapons race.

A Big Job Under Way

A huge job, which should have been undertaken years ago, is finally receiving serious attention. President Eisenhower the other day brought together federal officials, congressional leaders and a group of state governors to discuss the whole vast problem created by existing relations between the federal government and the states.

The conference agreed that a commission should be set up to study the subject further—and, as a result, the necessary bill will be prepared in time for action at this session of Congress.

As blueprinted by the conference, the commission would be made up of approximately 25 persons to be named by the President, Congress and the Governors Conference.

The commission would review not only the subject of federal and state taxes, in the hope of bringing some order to the array of conflicting levies that makes for duplication of effort and injustice, but also the plethora of federal-state programs meant to provide social security, national highways, expert advice for farmers, school lunches, and all the rest.

These mutual programs have expanded and multiplied until they represent a huge expenditure and a considerable bureaucracy. Between 1915 and 1947, it has been estimated, federal grants to states increased from $5,488,000 to $1,119,000,000.

If the commission were to succeed in nothing more than persuading Congress and the state legislatures to rationalize the tax system—or lack of system—it would be of tremendous benefit to the country. But there is need for a thorough-going inquiry into the things the federal government aims to achieve through grants-in-aid. Are the aims warranted? Are they being achieved? Are they being achieved efficiently and economically? These questions should be answered.

They will not be answered over night. But the length of time the study will take is one more reason for getting it under way as soon as possible.

Tornado Season Here

Spring, with its warm, sunny climate, its rejuvenation of nature, and the general feeling of good will it brings, traditionally acts as a "shot in the arm" for the weary human, miserably emerging from another hard, cold winter.

However, it seems that even Mother Nature's best necessitates some evil, for March to July are the tornado months.

Weather officials throughout the nation already are setting the wheels in motion for their annual tornado warning service.

Twisters, which usually move across country at speeds between 30 to 40 miles per hour, are capable of reaching internal speeds (speeds within their own funnel vortex) of from 675 to 1300 miles per hour.

Because of the frequency of tornadoes (the yearly average is 153) and the loss of life and huge property damage involved, it would be an excellent idea for everyone to report any of nature's devilments to the nearest U. S. Weather Bureau, as soon as tornado conditions are observed.

Stake In Suez

The outlook for the whole Middle East was improved recently by the Anglo-Egyptian agreement respecting the vast Nile Valley area known as the Sudan, but the Middle East remains in many respects the soft underbelly of the non-Communist world.

Iran, long a coveted goal of czarist and Soviet expansionism, faces an unstable future. Pakistan is having trouble with Moslem extremists. Egypt, under Dictator Naguib, has moved away from the mob violence and corruption endemic in the Middle East. If the Suez question can be settled half as easily as that of the Sudan, prospects for peace, stability and reform will be improved in the whole area.

The Suez Canal is so important to Western security that the nation controlling it in wartime would possess virtually a life-and-death power over Britain.

Dig Down, Young Man!

The way Representative Engle of California tells it, the young man who spends his time panning old gold diggings and hunting new ones is wasting it. Gold production during 1952 in California was worth $8,874,355. The winter carrot crop was worth $8,978,000.

Carrots are a good enough food, it is said, and there is little doubt that they have a place in the scheme of things. But comparison between carrot mining and gold mining as to romance or lure would be odious. The fact that rabbits don't wear glasses, as a colleague points out, proves that there may be gold in their carrots at that.

Painful Walking

Poor circulation is responsible for the pain that develops in the calf of the leg after walking a block or two. This symptom is known technically as intermittent claudication and occurs whenever the large leg artery is obstructed by such conditions as Buerger's disease or arteriosclerosis.

Intermittent claudication is easy to recognize. After going a certain distance the calf of one leg or the other (rarely both) begins to tighten, followed by cramping. As soon as pain becomes unbearable the individual stops. After a few moments, distress subsides and he is able to continue an equal distance before the cycle repeats itself.

The distance each individual walks before encountering pain is directly proportional to the loss of circulation. Those with minor impairment may be able to go a mile, or half this distance in cold weather, up an incline, or against a strong wind. When the alteration in the blood flow is more severe, the victim may be forced to give up after one-quarter to one-half block. But regardless of the degree of circulatory restrictions, the majority agree that pain disappears within a minute when they stand quietly and give the calf muscle a rest.

Several years ago one of my elderly intermittent claudication patients added a new wrinkle to this disease. He had just left his house in a quiet, residential district and was walking toward the end of the block when he felt a cramp coming on. This would not be unusual except that a lady whom he recognized as the neighborhood gossip was coming from the other way. He could stand the discomfort no longer and stood still about 30 feet in front of her. As she walked by, she mumbled "fresh" and my patient was so embarrassed he thereafter used the alley by day. He also prefers streets with stores so that when pain arises he can pretend to be looking at the merchandise on display.

Most of the treatments now available are aimed at improving the circulation. There are many drugs, including heparin, nicotinic acid, papaverine, aminophylline, and tissue extract. The intermittent venous occlusion machine also helps and in recent years sympathectomy has been used with increasing frequency. In this procedure, the nerves that control the caliber of the blood vessels in the legs are severed. These fibers run on each side of the backbone and the incision is made through the back in the kidney region.

However, despite the numerous remedies the condition is stubborn and often defies the best treatments. It is advisable to give up smoking, especially when Buerger's disease is the cause. It also helps to limit the amount of walking to a point just shy of that in which pain usually begins. In this way the extremity will not be made to do more work than its blood supply permits.

Man is not the only animal who is afflicted by intermittent claudication. The disorder was discovered originally in horses by the French veterinarian, Bouley, in 1831. He noted that older horses, after walking or running a certain distance, would stop dead and refuse to budge, even though whipped, until they made up their mind to do so. On post-mortem, advanced hardening of the arteries was found in these horses.

Tomorrow: Fungi thrive between the toes.

REPLY

Most blue babies have several defects, but in the most common type there is narrowing of the artery leading to the lungs. As a result, the blood is not being purified with oxygen. To overcome the handicap, the surgeon makes a new connection by pass the narrowed artery so that the blood can be shunted into the lungs. The effect is dramatic: the color of the skin and mucous membranes becomes more lively and there is improvement in breathing.

Eisenhower Reverses Policy Of Psychological Warfare Behind Iron Curtain; This May Be Time To Divide Russian People From Their Masters

WASHINGTON — As a result of Stalin's death, the Eisenhower administration has decided, at least for the time being, to reverse one of his campaign pledges regarding Soviet Russia, namely to use "every psychological tactic" to free "the nations conquered by communism."

Reason for the reversal is fear of rocking the boat at a delicate international moment and giving the new leaders in the Kremlin an excuse for drastic action.

The reversal is partly based upon a go-slow recommendation from Allen Dulles, head of Central Intelligence, who incidentally now differs with his brother, John Foster Dulles, and his Buffalo campaign speech of August 27, that we should encourage "quiet" revolutions in Red-dominated countries.

This reversal may be a wise one at this time—at least so far as the U. S. Government is concerned. However, it is also important to consider the possibility that Stalin's death may be the one moment when the people of Russia could more easily be divided from their masters in the Kremlin.

It may be the moment when vast hordes of non-Russians may wish to think twice about living under a regime which has consistently milked them and which has stamped out their own pride of nationalism. Whereas they were willing to go along with the revered Stalin, they may want to think twice about allegiance to the new Kremlin.

In brief, this may be the most crucial moment in postwar history—a moment when the world could take a tremendous step toward removing the threat of a ruthless military power—a real step toward peace.

It also may be a time when private American citizens, working with Soviet refugees, could accomplish more, and with greater international safety than the government.

Unrest in Russia

Here are some of the facts to be considered:

1. It is well known that unrest is rampant inside the satellite countries. Purges in Hungary and Czechoslovakia all attest to this. My own observations at the edge of the iron curtain in Berlin last month convince me ferment is more intense than ever before.
2. In the Soviet Union itself, irrespective of satellites, there is also great unrest.
3. The Soviet Union, actually, is a conglomerate of 14 republics which are overwhelmingly non-Russian. Only two republics are predominantly Russian. Nationalism is still strong in the 14 republics.

Furthermore, the population of the Soviet Union is 54 per cent non-Russian. Here is how Edward O'Connor, commissioner for displaced persons and an expert on European populations, breaks down the different ethnic groups of the Soviet Union.

Ukrainian Soviet Republic—Population 42,272,000—91 per cent non-Russian.

take even bolder steps in the future in the "cold war" without fear of a united front or a solid resistance from the Congress of the United States.

The politicians who think America is pacifist-minded never made a bigger mistake. The fact is that the majority of Americans believe a world-wide struggle for human freedom is going on, but they don't understand why 350,000 other Americans are being compelled to stand still in Korea and take endless punishment from the Communists while the government in Washington withholds the necessary orders to bring maximum military power to bear. Top military men say the Korean War can be ended now with far fewer casualties than would be incurred in a 10-year stalemate.

Realism hasn't struck Washington yet, and the new administration has not yet come to grips with what has to be done to get peace in the Far East and thereby in Europe. The main reason is that "Washington, like London and Paris, is still steering without a compass—a set of basic principles. The strongest nations militarily that the earth has ever seen are continuing to be bluffed by a group of bold conspirators in the Kremlin who, when challenged in earnest, will be swept from Russia by an enraged populace. All the messages from the Allied world about Stalin's death are being publicized and broadcast throughout Soviet Russia as evidence of the alleged sympathy for and friendship of the Western governments toward the Communist regime itself. The "psychological" strategy of the Western Allies last week was certainly a dud.

Kremlin Power Balance

WASHINGTON.

Reading the riddle of the Soviet government is due to be a fashionable game for many a long day. Only very tentative answers are given, as yet, by the small group of American experts who truly know the Kremlin and its personalities. For what these answers are worth—and they are at least worth more than the positive answers achieved by mental telepathy—they are crudely as follows:

First, Georgi Malenkov is chief of state but not as yet dictator, the most powerful but not as yet all-powerful, boss but not as yet tyrant.

Second, allotment of other posts suggests an intricately adjusted balance of power, which may break down.

Third, the design has plainly been made with particular deference to the Red army, which may conceivably play a major role in any breakdown of the power balance, as armies often do in tyrant-states.

The new design with these peculiar features is considered to have been the personal handiwork of Stalin. It is too complex to have been produced in a few frantic days of jealousy-charged leaders' meetings, in the anxious anti-room of Stalin's death chamber. Most probably Stalin actually reorganized the Soviet government and put the reorganized machine to work in the shadows, before the party Congress some months ago.

Younger Men Powerful

The light now has been let in, precisely because this is regarded as a time of emergency. Stalin himself stayed in the shadows until the emergency of the last war, when he assumed formal responsibility as Soviet chief of state. In the same manner, his former subordinates have now emerged from the shadows in the emergency of Stalin's death, to take formal responsibility for their respective sectors of the vast state organization. Thus Vyshinski, who has stepped down to let Molotov become foreign minister in name as well as in fact.

What has happened must be better for Stalin's generation. Of Stalin's two old friends and comrades in arms, Molotov as foreign minister has a dangerous responsibility but little power; while Voroshilov as the new "president" of the Soviets has a front-man's job. The younger men have the real levers of power in their hands.

The main levers of power are held by Malenkov of course, who is the recognized chief of state and stands at the head of the state bureaucracy; by Beria, the interior minister, who has behind him the terrible power of the secret police; and by Bulganin, the war minister, who has the Red army, air force

The Parties

President Eisenhower has apparently found a method of working with Congress despite the majority of only one which the Republicans have in the Senate. The margin is so narrow that actually the Congress could not conduct its work without the aid of the Democrats.

The formula which General Eisenhower therefore has adopted involves a bipartisan approach without lessening the individuality of either party. It is a difficult formula to use because it runs counter to the two-party system which is fundamental in the American political concept. Yet, necessity has imposed it upon the Congress and it is working with greater success than anyone had anticipated. This is due in a measure to President Eisenhower's personal popularity, but much more to the patriotism of Senators Taft, Bridges, Russell and Byrd and to the competence of General Wilton B. Parsons, the White House liaison with the Capitol.

Policies and attitudes are discussed in advance, particularly as regards foreign relations. The Republicans do not have a monopoly of information; the Democrats are informed and consulted at the same time. A series of bipartisan meetings and lunches take place at which serious matters of state are discussed.

Another phase of this program is the rigid recognition of the division of power in accordance with the Constitution. This was made clear by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in relation to the investigations of the McCarthy and Jenner committees. Dulles said: "Congress is a co-ordinate branch of the government. It has broad powers of investigation. These powers must be respected and so far as I am concerned, they will be respected."

In a word, Congress has its constitutional functions which the executive respects; the executive has its constitutional functions which it expects the Congress to respect. Each can aid the other. As this has not been the atmosphere in Washington for some 20 years, it comes somewhat as a shock to those government employees who have regarded the executive as superior to Congress, and the Constitution as an impediment to personal power.

In this climate, the two-party system continues to thrive. Adlai Stevenson will watch dog the Republicans as a member of the and fleet under his control. As Malenkov has long been manager of patronage, Malenkov undoubtedly has his own men in key places in the police and in the defense forces. But he is not thought to enjoy Stalin's former full power over them.

The very nature of the design hints at a triumvirate in which Malenkov has first place, just as Caesar had first place, most of the time, in the triumvirate of Caesar, Pompey and Crassus. The idea of a triumvirate is further confirmed by the obvious attempt to conciliate the Red army. Not only has Voroshilov, whom the soldiers love, been given his conspicuous front man's place. More significantly, Marshal Shukov, the World War Two hero whom Malenkov is reliably reputed to detect, has suddenly cropped up as deputy defense minister.

Alliance Is Doubtful

There are many uncertainties as to details of the new design. Malenkov and Beria may still be partners, as in the past. But this is doubtful. Malenkov may have formed a new partnership with the coming man, Khrushchev. This ruthless figure, who stamped out the Ukrainian insurgents after the war, has now been given control of the Communist party bureaucracy. But the existence of a Malenkov-Khrushchev alliance is also doubted by some.

Again, it is expected that the old politburo system of policy-making by committee will now be revived. But will the successor to the Politburo be the very similar presidium of the Communist party, now reduced to ten members and three alternates? Or has the party at last yielded first place to the state? In that case the true successor of the Politburo will be the smaller presidium of the Council of Ministers, composed of Malenkov, Beria, Bulganin and the Soviet industrial production chief, Kaganovich.

Such problems cannot now be resolved. Indeed, no one can even foresee whether the ensuing power struggle will be serious, or who will come out on top in the end. It is a strange drama, with the immensely fat, cunning, cruel, string-puller, Malenkov, setting out to dominate and control all the vast and surging forces of the widest and most absolute empire the world has ever seen.

Will his colleagues knuckle under to this strange new chief? Will Mao Tse-tung, who could argue with Stalin, bow to the authority of Malenkov? And what of the soldiers? How will they like this chill super-bureaucrat and heavy-fleshed intriguer? No one can tell. No one in the West can do better, indeed, than follow the wise rule of hoping for the best and preparing for the worst.

loyal opposition but not as a personal enemy. Stevenson, who is philosophically minded, does not stoop to the shallowness of partisan hatreds.

It is equally fortunate that neither General Eisenhower nor Senator Taft is vindictive toward the opposition. It must be recalled that Taft built the Republican-Democratic coalition in the Truman administration and that Eisenhower has had no personal experience with partisan politics. Therefore both can think of Congress as a whole, while recognizing the right of the opposition to oppose.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper once put the concept of an American political party with great wisdom. He said:

"Let me begin by reminding you that historically a political party is a substitute for revolution. Again and again countries would have been plunged into civil war had not bloodless elections become a substitute for armed insurrection. This method of peaceful settlement, first worked out in England in the 18th and 19th centuries, has spread into this and other countries and is generally recognized as a triumph of civilization."

It would be a cruel trick of history if an era of co-operation destroyed the two-party system, for then we should have a tyranny of those in power or a splinter party system which Senator Wayne Morse had hoped to develop. Morse's failure has established the fact that the two-party system survives. When he rises on Fridays, his colleagues of both parties leave him strictly alone. He speaks to himself and for the record only.

He has become an alien body in the national bloodstream. In effect, his state is not, because of his stiff-neckedness, fully represented in the Senate. It is a fair guess that Wayne Morse will not affect or even influence a vote on any important measure in the 83rd Congress. He has become a kibitzer, an onlooker who might as well sit in the Press Gallery to watch the proceedings.

In a word, while the parties cooperate, they actually retain their individual strength. Neither side is sacrificing its existence, and should not. Both sides are already working toward the 1954 elections. But the country is not being sacrificed for party advantage.

The new Skysweeper is a complete package. That is, it consists of a 10-ton barrel, breech, base, and carriage, while the auto loading magazines and the radar control are part of the same unit. The radar antenna, which restlessly scans the full 180-degree sweep of the horizon once every 40 seconds, is separate but small enough to be highly portable.

The new gun demonstrates malevolent accuracy in tracking a plane zipping overhead. With no human being near it, the gun picks up the plane, swings its muzzle to the proper lead—the preciseness of which every duck hunter will appreciate—and pumps 45 rounds of high explosive shells into the plane during the course of one minute.

The caliber—75 mm—makes it a smaller weapon than the Army's standard 90 mm gun, and therefore the former's range, presumably, isn't as great, but no doubt still effective at altitudes of three or four miles. As modern bombing runs go, this is a "medium level" run. Presumably the Army will re-equip anti-aircraft batteries with these guns as fast as they are available.

The new gun doesn't make the nation's defense screen against enemy air attack impenetrable. The radar that is the eyes of this gun has inherent faults—there are blind spots at low altitudes, and it is susceptible to enemy jamming. But until such time as high altitude ground-to-air homing missiles are perfected, there is no point in complacency.

Even in the latter eventuality the balance will only be temporarily with defense. For that is the way with a weapons race.

A Big Job Under Way

A huge job, which should have been undertaken years ago, is finally receiving serious attention. President Eisenhower the other day brought together federal officials, congressional leaders and a group of state governors to discuss the whole vast problem created by existing relations between the federal government and the states.

The conference agreed that a commission should be set up to study the subject further—and, as a result, the necessary bill will be prepared in time for action at this session of Congress.

As blueprinted by the conference, the commission would be made up of approximately 25 persons to be named by the President, Congress and the Governors Conference.

The commission would review not only the subject of federal and state taxes, in the hope of bringing some order to the array of conflicting levies that makes for duplication of effort and injustice, but also the plethora of federal-state programs meant to provide social security, national highways, expert advice for farmers, school lunches, and all the rest.

These mutual programs have expanded and multiplied until they represent a huge expenditure and a considerable bureaucracy. Between 1915 and 1947, it has been estimated, federal grants to states increased from $5,488,000 to $1,119,000,000.

If the commission were to succeed in nothing more than persuading Congress and the state legislatures to rationalize the tax system—or lack of system—it would be of tremendous benefit to the country. But there is need for a thorough-going inquiry into the things the federal government aims to achieve through grants-in-aid. Are the aims warranted? Are they being achieved? Are they being achieved efficiently and economically? These questions should be answered.

They will not be answered over night. But the length of time the study will take is one more reason for getting it under way as soon as possible.

Tornado Season Here

Spring, with its warm, sunny climate, its rejuvenation of nature, and the general feeling of good will it brings, traditionally acts as a "shot in the arm" for the weary human, miserably emerging from another hard, cold winter.

However, it seems that even Mother Nature's best necessitates some evil, for March to July are the tornado months.

Weather officials throughout the nation already are setting the wheels in motion for their annual tornado warning service.

Twisters, which usually move across country at speeds between 30 to 40 miles per hour, are capable of reaching internal speeds (speeds within their own funnel vortex) of from 675 to 1300 miles per hour.

Because of the frequency of tornadoes (the yearly average is 153) and the loss of life and huge property damage involved, it would be an excellent idea for everyone to report any of nature's devils to the nearest U. S. Weather Bureau, as soon as tornado conditions are observed.

Stake In Suez

The outlook for the whole Middle East was improved recently by the Anglo-Egyptian agreement respecting the vast Nile Valley area known as the Sudan, but the Middle East remains in many respects the soft underbelly of the non-Communist world.

Iran, long a coveted goal of czarist and Soviet expansionism, faces an unstable future. Pakistan is having trouble with Moslem extremists. Egypt, under Dictator Nasser, has moved away from the mob violence and corruption endemic in the Middle East. If the Suez question can be settled half as easily as that of the Sudan, prospects for peace, stability and reform will be improved in the whole area.

The Suez Canal is so important to Western security that the nation controlling it in wartime would possess virtually a life-and-death power over Britain.

Dig Down, Young Man!

The young Representative Engle of California tells it, the young man who spends his time panning old gold diggings and hunting new ones is wasting it. Gold production during 1952 in California was worth $8,874,355. The winter carrot crop was worth $8,978,000.

Carrots are a good enough food, it is said, and there is little doubt that they have a place in the scheme of things. But comparison between carrot mining and gold mining as to romance or lure would be odious. The fact that rabbits don't wear glasses, as a colleague points out, proves that there may be gold in them carrots at that.

How To Keep Well

Painful Walking

Poor circulation is responsible for the pain that develops in the calf of the leg after walking a block or two. This symptom is known technically as intermittent claudication and occurs whenever the large leg artery is obstructed by such conditions as Buerger's disease or arteriosclerosis.

Intermittent claudication is easy to recognize. After going a certain distance the calf of one leg or the other (rarely both) begins to tighten, followed by cramping. As soon as pain becomes unbearable the individual stops. After a few moments, distress subsides and he is able to continue an equal distance before the cycle repeats itself.

The distance each individual walks before encountering pain is directly proportional to the loss of circulation. Those with minor impairment may be able to go a mile, or half this distance in cold weather, up an incline, or against a strong wind. When the alteration in the blood flow is more severe, the victim may be forced to give up after one-quarter to one-half block. But regardless of the degree of circulatory restrictions, the majority agree that pain disappears within a minute when they stand quietly and give the calf muscle a rest.

Several years ago one of my elderly intermittent claudication patients added a new wrinkle to this disease. He had just left his house in a quiet, residential district and was walking toward the end of the block when he felt a cramp coming on. This would not be unusual except that a lady whom he recognized as the neighborhood gossip was coming from the other way. He could stand the discomfort no longer and stood still about 30 feet in front of her. As she walked by, she mumbled "fresh" and my patient was so embarrassed he thereafter used the alley by day. He also prefers streets with stores so that when pain arises he can pretend to be looking at the merchandise on display.

Most of the treatments now available are aimed at improving the circulation. There are many drugs, including heparin, nicotinic acid, papaverine, aminophylline, and tissue extract. The intermittent venous occlusion machine also helps and in recent years sympathectomy has been used with increasing frequency. In this procedure, the nerves that control the caliber of the blood vessels in the legs are severed. These fibers run on each side of the backbone and the incision is made through the back in the kidney region.

However, despite the numerous remedies the condition is stubborn and often defies the best treatments. It is advisable to give up smoking, especially when Buerger's disease is the cause. It also helps to limit the amount of walking to a point just shy of that in which pain usually begins. In this way the extremity will not be made to do more work than its blood supply permits.

Man is not the only animal who is afflicted by intermittent claudication. The disorder was discovered originally in horses by the French veterinarian, Bouley, in 1831. He noted that older horses, after walking or running a certain distance, would stop dead and refuse to budge, even though whipped, until they made up their mind to do so. On post-mortem, advanced hardening of the arteries was found in these horses.

Tomorrow: Fungi thrive between the toes.

WANTS ANSWER

R. C. writes: How long does it take to receive an answer in your column?
REPLY

The majority of suitable letters are answered promptly but more than a month is required for processing. Some letters are not answered in the column because they lack general interest or are unsuitable. To be certain of a reply, a stamped, self-addressed envelope should be inclosed with the letter for personal answer.

PROTEINS AND CANCER

H. S. writes: Does eating large amounts of proteins cause cancer?
REPLY

Despite the fact that the cause of cancer is unknown there is no proof that diet, including too much protein, plays a role.

BLUE BABY OPERATION

M. L. B. writes: Will you please explain how a blue baby operation is performed? My son just had this operation and I would like to know more about it.
REPLY

Most blue babies have several defects, but in the most common type there is narrowing of the artery leading to the lungs. As a result, the blood is not being purified with oxygen. To overcome the handicap, the surgeon makes a new connection by bypassing the narrowed artery so that the blood can be shunted into the lungs. The effect is dramatic: the color of the skin and mucous membranes becomes more lively and there is improvement in breathing.

Eisenhower Reverses Policy Of Psychological Warfare Behind Iron Curtain; This May Be Time To Divide Russian People From Their Masters

WASHINGTON—As a result of Stalin's death, the Eisenhower administration has decided, at least for the time being, to reverse one of his campaign pledges regarding Soviet Russia, namely to use "every psychological tactic" to free "the nations conquered by communism."

Reason for the reversal is fear of rocking the boat at a delicate international moment and giving the new leaders in the Kremlin an excuse for drastic action.

The reversal is partly based upon a go-slow recommendation from Allen Dulles, head of Central Intelligence, who incidentally now differs with his brother, John Foster Dulles, and his Buffalo campaign speech of August 27, that we should encourage "quiet" revolutions in Red-dominated countries.

This reversal may be a wise one at this time—at least so far as the U. S. Government is concerned.

However, it is also important to consider the possibility that Stalin's death may be the one moment when the people of Russia could more easily be divided from their masters in the Kremlin.

It may be the moment when vast hordes of non-Russians may wish to think twice about living under a regime which has consistently milked them and which has stamped out their own pride of nationalism. Whereas they were willing to go along with the revered Stalin, they may want to think twice about allegiance to the new Kremlin.

In brief, this may be the most crucial moment in postwar history—a moment when the world could take a tremendous step toward removing the threat of a ruthless military power—a real step toward peace.

It also may be a time when private American citizens, working with Soviet refugees, could accomplish more, and with greater international safety than the government.

Unrest in Russia

Here are some of the facts to be considered:
1. It is well known that unrest is rampant inside the satellite countries. Purges in Hungary and Czechoslovakia all attest to this. My own observations at the edge of the iron curtain in Berlin last month convince me ferment is more intense than ever before.

2. In the Soviet Union itself, irrespective of satellites, there is also great unrest.

3. The Soviet Union, actually, is a conglomeration of 14 republics which are overwhelmingly non-Russian. Only two republics are predominantly Russian. Nationalism is still strong in the 14 republics.

Furthermore, the population of the Soviet Union is 54 per cent non-Russian. Here is how Edward O'Connor, commissioner for displaced persons and an expert on European populations, breaks down the different ethnic groups of the Soviet Union:

Ukrainian Soviet Republic—	Population 42,272,000—91 per cent non-Russian.
Byelorussian Soviet Republic—	10,525,000—93 per cent non-Russian.
Estonian Republic—	1,120,000—92 per cent non-Russian.
Lithuanian Republic—	3,134,000—98 per cent non-Russian.
Latvian Republic—	1,950,000—98 per cent non-Russian.
Moldavian Republic—	2,321,000—100 per cent non-Russian.
Georgian Republic—	3,722,000—100 per cent non-Russian.
Armenian Republic—	1,346,000—100 per cent non-Russian.
Azerbaijan Republic—	3,372,000—90 per cent non-Russian.
Kazakh Republic—	6,438,000—80 per cent non-Russian.
Uzbek Republic—	6,601,000—94 per cent non-Russian.
Turkmen Republic—	1,317,000—93 per cent non-Russian.
Tadjik Republic—	1,560,000—100 per cent non-Russian.

take even bolder steps in the future in the "cold war" without fear of a united front or a solid resistance from the Congress of the United States.

The politicians who think America is pacifist-minded never made a bigger mistake. The fact is that the majority of Americans believe a world-wide struggle for human freedom is going on, but they don't understand why 350,000 other Americans are being compelled to stand still in Korea and take endless punishment from the Communists while the government in Washington withholds the necessary orders to bring maximum military power to bear. Top military men say the Korean War can be ended now with far fewer casualties than would be incurred in a 10-year stalemate.

Realism hasn't struck Washington yet, and the new administration has not yet come to grips with what has to be done to get peace in the Far East and thereby in Europe. The main reason is that Washington, like London and Paris, is still steering without a compass—a set of basic principles. The strongest nations militarily that the earth has ever seen are continuing to be bluffed by a group of bold conspirators in the Kremlin who, when challenged in earnest, will be swept from Russia by an enraged populace. All the messages from the Allied world about Stalin's death are being publicized and broadcast throughout Soviet Russia as evidence of the alleged sympathy for and friendship of the Western governments toward the Communist regime itself. The "psychological" strategy of the Western Allies last week was certainly a dud.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Kremlin Power Balance

WASHINGTON.

Reading the riddle of the Soviet government is due to be a fashionable game for many a long day. Only very tentative answers are given, as yet, by the small group of American experts who truly know the Kremlin and its personalities. For what these answers are worth—and they are at least worth more than the positive answers achieved by mental telepathy—they are crudely as follows:

First, Georgi Malenkov is chief of state but not as yet dictator, the most powerful but not as yet all-powerful, boss but not as yet tyrant.

Second, allotment of other posts suggests an intricately adjusted balance of power, which may break down.

Third, the design has plainly been made with particular deference to the Red army, which may conceivably play a major role in any breakdown of the power balance, as armies often do in tyrant-states.

The new design with these peculiar features is considered to have been the personal handiwork of Stalin. It is too complex to have been produced in a few frantic days of jealousy-charged leaders' meetings, in the anxious anti-room of Stalin's death chamber. Most probably Stalin actually reorganized the Soviet government and put the reorganized machine to work in the shadows, before the party Congress some months ago.

Younger Men Powerful

The light now has been let in, precisely because this is regarded as a time of emergency. Stalin himself stayed in the shadows until the emergency of the last war, when he assumed formal responsibility as Soviet chief of state. In the same manner, his former subordinates have now emerged from the shadows in the emergency of Stalin's death, to take formal responsibility for their respective sectors of the vast state organization. Thus Vyshinski, who was foreign minister in name only, has stepped down to let Molotov become foreign minister in name as well as in fact.

What has happened must be better for Stalin's generation. Of Stalin's two old friends and comrades in arms, Molotov as foreign minister has a dangerous responsibility but little power; while Voroshilov as the new "president" of the Soviets has a front-man's job. The younger men have the real levers of power in their hands.

The main levers of power are held by Malenkov of course, who is the recognized chief of state and stands at the head of the state bureaucracy; by Beria, the interior minister, who has behind him the terrible power of the secret police; and by Bulganin, the war minister, who has the Red army, air force and fleet under his control. As Malenkov has long been manager of patronage, Malenkov undoubtedly has his own men in key places in the police and in the defense forces. But he is not thought to enjoy Stalin's former full power over them.

The very nature of the design hints at a triumvirate in which Malenkov has first place, just as Caesar had first place, most of the time, in the triumvirate of Caesar, Pompey and Crassus. The idea of a triumvirate is further confirmed by the obvious attempt to conciliate the Red army. Not only has Voroshilov, whom the soldiers love, been given his conspicuous front man's place. More significantly, Marshal Shukov, the World War Two hero whom Malenkov is reliably reputed to detect, has suddenly been dropped up as deputy defense minister.

Alliance Is Doubtful

There are many uncertainties as to details of the new design. Malenkov and Beria may still be partners, as in the past. But this is doubtful. Malenkov may have formed a new partnership with the coming man, Khrushchev. This ruthless figure, who stamped out the Ukrainian insurgents after the war, has now been given control of the Communist party bureaucracy. But the existence of a Malenkov-Khrushchev alliance is also doubted by some.

Again, it is expected that the old politburo system of policy-making by committee will now be revived. But will the successor to the Politburo be the very similar presidium of the Communist party, now reduced to ten members and three alternates? Or has the party at last yielded first place to the state? In that case the true successor of the Politburo will be the smaller presidium of the Council of Ministers, composed of Malenkov, Beria, Bulganin and the Soviet industrial production-chief, Kaganovich.

Such problems cannot now be resolved. Indeed, no one can even foresee whether the ensuing power struggle will be serious, or who will come out on top in the end. It is a strange drama, with the immensely fat, cunning, cruel, string-puller, Malenkov, setting out to dominate and control all the vast and surging forces of the widest and most absolute empire the world has ever seen.

Will his colleagues knuckle under to this strange new chief? Will Mao Tse-Tung, who could argue with Stalin, bow to the authority of Malenkov? And what of the soldiers? How will they like this child super-bureaucrat and heavy-fleshed intriguer? No one can tell. No one in the West can do better, indeed, than follow the wise rule of hoping for the best and preparing for the worst.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

loyal opposition but not as a personal enemy. Stevenson, who is philosophically minded, does not stoop to the shallowness of partisan hatreds.

It is equally fortunate that neither General Eisenhower nor Senator Taft is vindictive toward the opposition. It must be recalled that Taft built the Republican-Democratic coalition in the Truman administration and that Eisenhower has had no personal experience with partisan politics. Therefore both can think of Congress as a whole, while recognizing the right of the opposition to oppose.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper once put the concept of an American political party with great wisdom. He said:

"Let me begin by reminding you that historically a political party is a substitute for revolution. Again and again countries would have been plunged into civil war had not bloodless elections become a substitute for armed insurrection. This method of peaceful settlement, first worked out in England in the 18th and 19th centuries, has spread into this and other countries and is generally recognized as a triumph of civilization."

It would be a cruel trick of history if an era of co-operation destroyed the two-party system, for then we should have a tyranny of those in power or a splinter party system which Senator Wayne Morse had hoped to develop. Morse's failure has established the fact that the two-party system survives. When he rises on Fridays, his colleagues of both parties leave him strictly alone. He speaks to himself and for the record only.

He has become an alien body in the national bloodstream. In effect, his state is not, because of his stiff-neckedness, fully represented in the Senate. It is a fair guess that Wayne Morse will not affect or even influence a vote on any important measure in the 83rd Congress. He has become a kibitzer, an onlooker who might as well sit in the Press Gallery to watch the proceedings.

In a word, while the parties cooperate, they actually retain their individual strength. Neither side is sacrificing its existence, and should not. Both sides are already working toward the 1954 elections. But the country is not being sacrificed for party advantage.

Majority Association Gives James Chenoweth Award

For the second time, the DeMolay Majority Association selected James Chenoweth as the "all around DeMolay boy of the year," and at the annual Ladies Night party, held Saturday night presented the award to him.

The award is made to the boy who has been most outstanding in sports, ritual and the DeMolay principles, throughout the year. It was presented to James by Dr. C. N. Foose, president of the association, who served as toastmaster for the evening.

Using "Tolerance," as his subject, Dr. Albert C. Cook, pointed out that it covers not only tolerance of others in religion, or freedom of speech, or forbearance with one differing in opinion with us but everything in general. Dr. Cook stressed the fact that tolerance is one of the main principles of the DeMolay. He brought out that DeMolay is not a religious organization but a fraternal organization and everyone is entitled to his own belief.

DeMolay was also stressed in the arrangement of the dinner table in the shape of a "D". Spring flowers were used in the decorations. There were 45 guests attending. Dancing concluded the evening.

The association will confer the second degree for Cumberland Chapter, March 25. It will be at 8 o'clock at the Masonic Temple.

Majority Association Gives James Chenowith Award

For the second time, the DeMolay Majority Association selected James Chenowith as the "all around DeMolay boy of the year," and at the annual Ladies Night party, held Saturday night presented the award to him.

The award is made to the boy who has been most outstanding in sports, ritual and the DeMolay principles, throughout the year. It was presented to James by Dr. C. N. Foose, president of the association, who served as toastmaster for the evening.

Using "Tolerance," as his subject, Dr. Albert C. Cook, pointed out that it covers not only tolerance of others in religion, or freedom of speech, or forbearance with one differing in opinion with us but everything in general. Dr. Cook stressed the fact that tolerance is one of the main principles of the DeMolay. He brought out that DeMolay is not a religious organization but a fraternal organization and everyone is entitled to his own belief.

DeMolay was also stressed in the arrangement of the dinner table in the shape of a "D". Spring flowers were used in the decorations. There were 45 guests attending. Dancing concluded the evening.

The association will confer the second degree for Cumberland Chapter, March 25. It will be at 8 o'clock at the Masonic Temple.

LaSalle Loses To St. John's

Redmen Pull Upset In NIT Game, 75-74

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Unseeded St. John's, a sturdy, scrappy team of sharpshooters, knocked Defending Champion LaSalle out of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, 75-74.

The victory in this furiously contested game before a crowd of about 15,000, sent the Redmen into the semi-final round.

The Explorers, minus their ailing stars, Tom Gola and Jackie Moore for the greater part of the first half, just missed pulling it out in a frenzied finish after they had trailed by as much as 13 points.

It was a free throw by Dick Duckett, one of the pudgy little men on the St. John's team, that gave the Redmen their winning point with less than a minute to go.

In the opening game of tonight's triple-header, Niagara University blew a comfortable lead but came back with a burst of overtime scoring to whip Brigham Young, 82-76.

The fight will be the fifth for Moore since he won the title from Joe Maxim in December. It will be televised nationally.

AHS Seeks 9th In Row

Raupach To Try Again

A New School Ruling

Why Writer Wore Cap

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN ALLEGANY HIGH OPPOSES

Wicomico High School of Salisbury in the semi-finals of Maryland's Class "A" championship basketball park tourney Friday at College Park the local school will be angling for its ninth consecutive victory over an Eastern Shore quint.

These schools met once before and that was in the state finals of 1950 when AHS was returned the winner in a 53-52 thriller.

Fort Hill knocked off Salisbury in the finals of 1948 by the score of 79-16 and repeated in 1949 to the tune of 52-36.

Allegany's eight-game winning streak at the expense of Eastern Shore teams started in 1930 when the Campers beat Cambridge, 55-14. The Campers took Crisfield in 1931, 33-8 and in 1932, 1933, 1934, 1936 and 1937 ran over Cambridge by scores of 43-12, 65-14, 28-14, 38-16 and 40-31.

In the long history of state basketball tournaments no Eastern Shore school has ever won it.

Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring and Bel Air are the other Class "A" semi-finalists this weekend.

The Silver Spring quint bagged state honors last year by beating Hagerstown.

Allegany met Montgomery Blair in the 1950 state tourney and was forced to play an extra period to win, 58-49. The Campers have met the Blazers three times in football, winning 39-19 in 1950, losing the following year, 13-0, and winning by a 20-19 score in 1952.

JIM RAUPACH, former Cumberland, now a used car dealer at Hagerstown, is at Daytona Beach, Fla., getting his English built motorcycle ready for the 17th annual national championship race, a 200-mile affair, set for this weekend.

Raupach has entered machines in the Florida event six times in past years.

Ted Boyd, veteran Baltimore rider, will pilot Raupach's machine in the Florida classic.

A RULING by the State Board of Education, aimed at curbing post-season games, will affect the YMCA and many other tournaments this year.

All players who have participated in varsity, junior varsity and junior high basketball are warned to refrain from playing post-season games if they want to retain their scholastic eligibility in spring sports and basketball next season.

JAMES P. DAWSON, 58, boxing editor of the New York Times, who died of a heart attack the other day while covering the spring training of the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla., was known to millions of television fight followers as the reporter who always wore a cap at ringside.

He wore it for two reasons: first, to keep the bright ring lights out of his eyes, and second as a protection for his head against the missiles sometimes thrown down by irate gallery fans.

Dawson, a native of New York City, was one of nine children. His parents were from the Emerald Isle—his father being a native of Longford, County Longford and his mother from Dundalk in county Lough, Ireland.

One of his pet peeves was the accepted patime of the Johnny-come-lately writers describing anything happening on New York's West Side from 60th street down to 14th as happening in "Hell's Kitchen."

He emphasized that the "Hell's Kitchen" was a single block—Fifty-ninth street from 10th to 11th avenues.

As a boy Dawson got as far as the 7th grade in Sacred Heart Parochial School when his father's death forced him to seek work.

When he was 13 he got a job as an office boy at the New York Times. It wasn't long before he worked his way into the sports department. In 1915 he became boxing editor and held that title for the next 38 years. He covered every important fight since Dempsey knocked out Willard. He said he didn't cover that one because he was considered too young and inexperienced.

One of his proudest possessions was an engraved watch he received from Jack Dempsey.

On his long association with his newspaper he once wrote:

"I am proud of the privilege of working so long in such a wonderful institution. It has been high school, college, mental, moral and physical developer for me."

In years of continuous service he was the oldest active boxing writer in New York, and one of the oldest in the country.

Griffin "Mac" McGinn was the manager of that club and "Lefty" Fike was the pitching ace. ## LaSalle Loses To St. John's

Redmen Pull Upset In NIT Game, 75-74

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Unseeded St. John's, a sturdy, scrappy team of sharpshooters, knocked off defending champion LaSalle out of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, 75-74.

The victory in this furiously contested game before a crowd of about 15,000, sent the Redmen into the semi-final round.

The Explorers, minus their ailing stars, Tom Gola and Jackie Moore for the greater part of the first half, just missed pulling it out in a frenzied finish after they had trailed by as much as 13 points.

It was a free throw by Dick Duckett, one of the pudgy little men on the St. John's team, that gave the Redmen their winning point with less than a minute to go.

In the opening game of tonight's triple-header, Niagara University blew a comfortable lead but came back with a burst of overtime scoring to whip Brigham Young, 82-76.

AHS Seeks 9th In Row

Raupach To Try Again

A New School Ruling

Why Writer Wore Cap

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN ALLEGANY HIGH opposes Wicomico High of Salisbury in the semi-finals of Maryland's "A" championship basketball tournament Friday at College Park the local school will be angling for its ninth consecutive victory over an Eastern Shore quint.

These schools met once before and that was in the state finals of 1950 when AHS was returned the winner in a 53-52 thriller.

Fort Hill knocked off Salisbury in the finals of 1948 by the score of 79-16 and repeated in 1949 to the tune of 52-36.

Allegheny's eight-game winning streak at the expense of Eastern Shore teams started in 1930 when the Campers beat Cambridge, 55-14. The Campers took Crisfield in 1931, 33-8 and in 1932, 1933, 1934, 1936 and 1937 ran over Cambridge by scores of 43-12, 65-14, 28-14, 38-16 and 40-31.

In the long history of state basketball tournaments no Eastern Shore school has ever won it. Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring and Bel Air are the other Class "A" semi-finalists this weekend.

The Silver Spring quint bagged state honors last year by beating Hagerstown.

Allegheny met Montgomery Blair in the 1950 state tourney and was forced to play an extra period to win, 58-49. The Campers have met the Blazers three times in football, winning 39-19 in 1950, losing the following year, 13-0, and winning by a 20-19 score in 1952.

JIM RAUPACH, former Cumberland, now a used car dealer at Hagerstown, is at Daytona Beach, Fla., getting his English built motorcycle ready for the 17th annual national championship race, a 200-mile affair, set for this weekend.

Raupach has entered machines in the Florida event six times in past years.

Ted Boyd, veteran Baltimore rider, will pilot Raupach's machine in the Florida classic.

A RULING by the State Board of Education, aimed at curbing post-season games, will affect the YMCA and many other tournaments this year.

All players who have participated in varsity, junior varsity and junior high basketball are warned to refrain from playing post-season games if they want to retain their scholastic eligibility in spring sports and basketball next season.

JAMES P. DAWSON, 58, boxing editor of the New York Times, who died of a heart attack the other day while covering the spring training of the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla., was known to millions of television fight followers as the reporter who always wore a cap at ringside.

He wore it for two reasons: first, to keep the bright ring lights out of his eyes, and second as a protection for his head against the missiles sometimes thrown down by irate gallery fans.

Dawson, a native of New York City, was one of nine children. His parents were from the Emerald Isle—his father being a native of Longford, County Longford and his mother from Dundalk in county Lough, Ireland.

One of his pet peeves was the accepted pat of the Johnny-come-lately writers describing anything happening on New York's West Side from 60th street down to 14th as happening in "Hell's Kitchen." He emphasized that "Hell's Kitchen" was a single block—Fifty-ninth street from 10th to 11th avenues.

As a boy Dawson got as far as the 7th grade in Sacred Heart Parochial School when his father's death forced him to seek work. When he was 13 he got a job as an office boy at the New York Times. It wasn't long before he worked his way into the sports department. In 1915 he became boxing editor and held that title for the next 38 years. He covered every important fight since Dempsey knocked out Willard. He said he didn't cover that one because he was considered too young and inexperienced.

One of his proudest possessions was an engraved watch he received from Jack Dempsey.

On his long association with his newspaper he once wrote:

"I am proud of the privilege of working so long in such a wonderful institution. It has been high school, college, mental, moral and physical developer for me."

In years of continuous service he was the oldest active boxing writer in New York, and one of the oldest in the country.

Amvets Cop Lead In Shuffle Loop, Top Purple Heart

Cumberland's Amvets took over sole possession of first place in the Allegheny County Men's Shuffleboard League last night by winning two out of three games from the Purple Heart Club. The Amvets' record now is 53-19.

The Amvets' win broke a three-way tie for the lead with Purple Heart and Cumberland V. F. W. Each team had 51-18 records prior to last night's match.

Tommy Geatz and John Esposito were high scorers for the Amvets with 17 points each. Shaffer led Purple Heart with 16.

As You WERE

This is the 92nd in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.

Back in the days when a good standing guard meant a lot to a basketball team defensively, the player pictured here was without a peer in the tri-state area.

He was a rugged fellow and if you don't believe it ask some of the players who came in contact with him. Running into him was just about the same as crashing against a stone wall.

This player was a fixture with the Keyser Collegians from the 1915-16 season until the club disbanded in 1928. Among his teammates the first season were the Rev. Harry Baughman, Glenn Carder, "Fats" Moore, Perry J. Greenwade, Paul J. Davis, Dyke Shaffer and "Mutt" Loudon.

During the 1917-18 season he was with the Keyser team that won 24 out of 25 games. This club beat Grafton, 102-6, Fairmont YMCA 89-20, Davis and Elkins College 80-9 and 79-16, Martinsburg 96-28, Elk Lick (Pa.) 107-17 and Gettysburg Collegians, 73-17. During the time he was with the Collegians they went five years without losing a home contest.

He and Dyke Shaffer were running mates at the guard position so many years at Keyser that they were known as the "Gold Dust Twins."

In 1917 he was the first string catcher of the Cumberland Division team that won the B. & O. Railroad System baseball championship by beating Garrett, Indiana, at Baltimore. Griffin "Mac" McGinn was the manager of that club and "Lefty" Fike was the pitching ace. Other members included Raymond Beck, "Hank" Gruber, Arthur Spearman, Dyke Shaffer, "Bus" Kirby, Oscar Fazenkaber and a Capt. R. J. Offutt. He also was the receiver for one of the best ball teams that ever represented Barton.

What's his name?

He is Clem Montgomery and he is now carrying the mail on a rural route out of Keyser. The photo of him is in the Montgomery file.

Doby And Wynn Sign Contracts

TUCSON, Ariz., March 9 (AP)—Centerfielder Larry Doby and Pitcher Early Wynn ended hold-outs today, accepting 1953 Cleveland Indian contracts that boosted their pay around $5,000 each.

Wynn signed for what informed guessers estimated at $37,000. The burly righthander won 23 and lost 12 last year to rank as league runner-up victories to Philadelphia's Bobby Shantz.

Doby, American League home run leader with 32, said he was "well satisfied" with his contract which is believed to be for $28,000.

Saigh Loses License

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 9 (INS)—The Missouri Supreme Court today removed Fred M. Seigh, former president of the St. Louis Cardinals, from the state bar registry list and ordered his law license cancelled.

The court acted following receipt of a letter surrendering his license to practice from Saigh who is under sentence for income tax evasion.

These three low-caloried luncheons make dieting interesting and far easier for busy homemakers!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Without undue fuss, how can a dieting mother have a low-caloried lunch at the same time she gives her children heavier and more filling fare? That is a problem posed by many a letter that

I receive from slimming homemakers.

Here are three excellent suggestions worked out by my diet consultant. All are "one-dish" solutions — easy to fix and both tempting and satisfying. Round them out with a glass of skim milk, a cracker and some fresh fruit and you have a high vitamin, mineral and protein lunch. Just what is best!

Verbal Clash Marks School Bill Hearing

Business Men Oppose School Building Bill

Discuss Industrial Highway Program

The South Cumberland Business Men's Association yesterday discussed three important legislative bills in which it has been interested, and decided to ask for changes in two of the measures.

A telegram from the organization was sent to State Sen. Robert B. Kimble and Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the county delegation, asking that:

1. The mandatory $6 million school-building bill be scrapped and a $2 million program "in accordance with recommendations of the County Commissioners and the Board of Education" be substituted for it.

2. The recently enacted Industrial Expansion Act be amended to provide tax exemption on improvements and expansions costing $5,000 or more. The original bill provided a $25,000 limit, but the delegation dropped the qualifying figure to $10,000 in the final bill which was signed last week by Gov. McKeldin.

The association also heard city officials discuss a plan to provide an industrial highway embodying a cross-town bridge and costing about $8 million.

Ask School Compromise

The proposed school expansion bill came under fire at the meeting after James G. Weber pointed out that the mandatory act, on which a hearing was held yesterday in Annapolis, would force the county to float about $1,500,000 worth of bonds each year for the next six years in order to build and expand schools. No referendum would be provided.

Weber said the bill, if passed, would double the county's bonded indebtedness and obligate future county commissioners to expenditures in which they would have no voice.

He suggested, instead, that the program be reduced to a two-year, $2 million plan and that more funds be sought in 1955.

Industrial Belt Discussed

Mayor Roy W. Eves discussed the proposed industrial highway and cross-town viaduct, both of which are included in the State Roads Commission's controversial 12-year road construction program for the state.

The Mayor said there is nothing in the present program to insure that the viaduct would remain a part of the program if the General Assembly decides to authorize the SRC to float bonds and go ahead with the projects.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said engineering, surveying and rights of way for the cross-town bridge would cost $100,000 during 1954-57. Construction from Willowbrook Road to Walnut Lane during 1957-61 would cost $3,000,000. The third phase of construction would start in 1961.

Provides Loop Route

The industrial highway, to cost $1,200,000, would join State Route 51 (Oldtown Road) at Evitts Creek with Thomas Street, by way of Fifth Street, providing a belt route around the South Cumberland industrial and business section.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson discussed financial aspects of the project.

Forty-five members attended the meeting, which was held in Grace Methodist Church recreation room. The next meeting will be held Monday, March 23 at 6 p. m.

Celanese Issues Profit Report

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Celanese Corp. of America today reported 1952 net income of $9,214,387, equal to 77 cents a share, compared with $24,800,263, or $3.56, the previous years.

Sales volume declined from $202,651,014 in 1951 to $166,711,033 last year.

In the annual report to stockholders, the company said: "The evils of scare buying and accumulation of inventories arising at the beginning of the Korean War have been difficult to overcome."

"We had looked for a substantial recovery in 1952, which materialized in the third quarter but thereafter tapered off. At the present time there has been moderate improvement."

Weather

Warm sun sent the temperature up to an official high of 40 at Constitution Park and a good deal of the weekend snow was melted yesterday. The day's low was 18 degrees and 8:30 o'clock last night the reading was 32 degrees. For today the prediction is for a little warmer weather followed by rain or snow in Western Maryland in the late afternoon.

Compromise Plan Is Submitted By Commissioners

(Special To The News) Several heated verbal exchanges between members of the County Delegation and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners featured a three-hour hearing yesterday on House Bill 441, which would authorize and direct the County Commissioners to borrow $6,000,000 in the next six years to finance a 14-point county school construction program.

About 150 county residents—130 of them from Westernport and Luke—attended the session in the House of Delegates chamber in Annapolis.

Except for the commissioners and their attorney all spokesmen at the hearing said they were in favor of the proposal.

Areas Represented

Also represented at yesterday's session were LaVale, Oldtown, Flintstone and spokesmen for the Carver High School and Lincoln School parents' groups.

Chief spokesmen for the opposition were Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the Board of County Commissioners, who said he had an alternate bill which would answer the objections of the commissioners.

Instead of a mandatory bill, he would offer an enabling act which would simply give the commissioners the authority to issue the bonds.

And rather than authorize issuance of $6,000,000 in bonds, his proposal would limit the issue to $3,000,000 over a two-year period. The commissioners would have to match the county's $3,000,000 with a like amount in Federal and/or state funds. He believes the commissioners' plan is a "conservative and safe program" that will preserve the county's credit rating.

Before Getty talked, some 12 or so persons spoke in behalf of the bill.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who attended yesterday's hearing, informed the citizens that he would support House Bill 441 if it gets favorable action from the House of Delegates. The six members of the County Delegation did not commit themselves on how they stood on the school financing program.

Bill Not A "Dream"

Charles M. See, chairman of the County Delegation, who presided at the hearing, began the meeting by stressing that the delegates did not "dream up" the bill. His remark was a pointed reference to a statement made last Friday by the County Commissioners that House Bill 441 was an "autocratic, emotional and ill-conceived" approach to the school construction program. He said it was exactly the program that was presented to the delegates by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

After his opening remarks, See introduced Webster who spoke in behalf of the program for about 30 minutes. Webster contended that the construction is "three years past due" and had been delayed because of industrial adversity in the county. He asserted that he had reviewed a program as originally prepared by former Superintendent Charles L. Kopp and had studied it school by school since taking office last July 1 to ascertain the "pressure points" in the system. He added that he was further guided by the school census conducted last October.

Upon questioning by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Webster said "I would hate to start a building program and then after two years have to stop it. Therefore I favor a mandatory bill."

State Need Cited

Kenneth R. Malcolm, president of the County Board of Education, was the next speaker. He was followed by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, who said he was not familiar with the details of the Allegany County school needs.

He did assert that throughout the state today there are more children than under the age of six years than are enrolled in the first 10 grades of public facilities must be added for additional facilities must be added.

Other speakers were V. Browne Koonen, Westernport; Mrs. Raymond Reeves, former president of the Hammond Street PTA, Westernport; Mayor Okey Michael of Westernport; Mrs. Robert Derham, president of the Westernport and Luke Civic Club; Flintstone PTA; Floyd Buser, president of the Allegany County Farm Bureau; John W. Wormanack, representing the Carver School PTA; Richard Evans of Frostburg, speaking in behalf of a new Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg; Mrs. Edgar T. Duke, LaVale School PTA; F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024, AFL, and Homer E. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county school system.

Getty's remarks in opposition were supported by the three commissioners, William H. Lemmert, president; James Orr and James Holmes.

Ham Dinner Planned

A St. Patrick's Day ham dinner will be served at McKendree Methodist Church, 229 North Centre Street, on Thursday at 5 p. m. by the Young Adult Fellowship.

Civil Service Bill Solution Is Council Aim

City Attorney's Plan Turned Down

If a compromise cannot be reached on an "employees" and city Civil Service bill within the next few days, the city measure will be printed, sent to Annapolis and a hearing asked.

The Mayor and Council agreed to this suggestion by Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder yesterday morning after it had defeated 3-2 another motion by Mrs. Roeder to adopt the city bill prepared by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

The so-called "employees" bill, prepared by Attorney Thomas N. Berry of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, contains, in addition to Civil Service provisions, certain working condition clauses.

The Finan-prepared bill pertains only to the Civil Service Commission and procedure.

Lengthy Discussion

Mayor Roy W. Eves opposed the first Roeder order on grounds that sending two bills to Annapolis for the county delegation would indicate a division of opinion. He said a unified bill should be agreed upon, and added he would like to see a synopsis of the two bills to highlight the differences.

The discussion took considerable time with both Finan and Berry presenting versions of their two bills and differences in them.

Berry suggested that considerable thought be given the city bill since it was substantially the same as that which was not acted upon at the last session of the legislature.

Finan, repeating a previous assertion, said no Civil Service law should be so comprehensive as to constitute a labor contract.

Mrs. Roeder concurred with Finan in this and told Berry that administrators wanted things unified.

Long Disagrees

Commissioner John J. Long disagreed with the "employees" bill in regard to promotion procedure which would make the commissioner appoint the man highest on the list. He said this is "taking authority from the hands of the commissioner."

And he added if the time comes when any "pressure" group tells him "I must promote a man to lieutenant or captain" and know he is not the best man for the job "I'll resign first."

In this discussion, Berry used a "political favoritism" argument which he said has been evident over the past 30 or 40 years. He added the time has come to make a clear-cut break on the promotion method based on "who is in the good graces at City Hall."

Berry also argued that there are too many "working inequities" and said he believed the men should have a Civil Service law on which they could rely. There should be no need for them to hire an attorney, he said.

Finan interposed, however, that regardless of the bill, it is always subject to interpretation.

Long asked for a vote on the first Roeder motion and said he had confidence in the Finan bill.

Keegan said he wanted time to go over it; Eves added he could not vote intelligently on the bill at this time, and Commissioner William J. Edwards said he felt the same way.

Eves said that from the discussion this morning it was evident there is misunderstanding on the situation. He added he did not want to vote against Finan's bill but thought the vote premature. He wants a copy of the "employees" bill, the Mayor said.

Eves said when he voted "No" on the motion to approve Finan's bill it was not because he did not want it to go to the legislature.

Edwards said he agreed with the Mayor and voted "No." Keegan said "No. I don't understand it."

Mrs. Roeder and Long voted "Yes."

It was then Mrs. Roeder introduced the second motion that if a compromise is not reached soon, the Finan bill should get a hearing.

Arthur J. Athey, 26 Browning Street, twisting machine fixer in the textile engineering department of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America yesterday was presented with a gold watch in honor of his quarter-century service with the company.

The gold wrist watch, engraved with his name, the company's name and the reason for the award, was presented to Athey by W. J. Elvin, plant engineer. He was also presented with an engraved 25-year certificate and a gold five-star Celanese service emblem.

Athey worked 10 years in weaving and at his present job for 15 years. Prior to employment at the Celanese, he was employed for eight years at the Maryland Glass Company. He is married and has one married daughter.

Representatives of other Episcopal Churches in Western Maryland will attend today's meeting.

"Reds" Denied Court Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused for the second time to review the conviction in Baltimore of six persons teach violent overthrow of the government.

The high tribunal on January 19 denied the group a hearing and their counsel then asked the justices to reconsider the refusal.

Five of the group were described as being onetime kingpins of the Communist Party in Maryland. The sixth, Maurice L. Braverman, served as their attorney.

Sentences given the group were: Philip Frankfield, five years; his wife, Regina, two years; George A. Meyers, four years; Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg, Leroy H. Wood and Braverman, three years each. A $1,000 fine also was imposed on each.

Four Unhurt In Collision

Four Allegany County men escaped injury Sunday when their car skidded on the icy Pennsylvania Turnpike and was struck by two tractor-trailer trucks.

All were returning from the convention of District 1, United Rubber Workers union in Akron when the crash occurred at about 5:30 p. m.

Stanley E. Zorick, who was driving the car owned by Lester Fatkin of Frostburg, said he skidded and slowed down. A tractor-trailer following close behind rammed into the rear of the car and pushed it onto the median strip.

Then a truck traveling in the opposite direction smashed into the front of the car.

Zorick, Fatkin and two other passengers, J. F. Sachs of Cumberland and L. J. Stakem of Maryland, escaped harm, but the car was so badly damaged that the delegates had to return home from Pittsburgh by train.

No charges were filed.

State Will Get W.Va. Park Site

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 9 (AP)—Ownership of the 1,000-acre site of Blackwater Falls state park in Tucker County is being transferred to the State as a gift from the West Virginia Power and Transmission Co., Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson announced today.

Johnson explained that the state has operated a park on the site since 1934 under a lease, but has not owned the property. For that reason, intensive development of the park has not been undertaken.

The official transfer of title will take place after completion of surveys to establish the exact boundaries of the acreage. Johnson said the surveys would begin soon.

The park is the location of Blackwater Falls, one of the most photographed scenic attractions in West Virginia. The Blackwater River plunges over a 63-foot precipice below which it forms a rapids between the nearly perpendicular walls of Blackwater Canyon.

The acreage to be transferred includes the falls and a major portion of the canyon.

Wilson Fined $150 In Auto Accident

Nabbed on two state motor charges which included leaving the scene of an accident, Raymond Guy Wilson, 47 Blackiston Avenue, was fined $150 and costs yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court. He pleaded guilty to both counts.

Wilson was taken into custody Saturday night after his car struck another auto at the corner of Bedford and Centre Streets. Officer Charles Crawford investigated.

Jones, O'Haver Released Under $5,000 Bonds

Two Face Grand Jury In Separate Charges

Two Allegany County men, charged with assault with intent to kill in two separate shootings last week, were released under $5,000 bond each yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court for action of the grand jury.

They are Raymond H. Jones, 31, of LaVale, and Junior Allen O'Haver, 30, of near Rawlings. Both were ordered to appear during the April term of Circuit Court for grand jury action by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Jones is accused of firing a 20-gauge shotgun blast at Mrs. Helen Mary Roberts, 36, of 9 Bellevue Street, Wednesday. The blast, which was fired at Mrs. Roberts as she fled to a neighbor's house, whizzed past her head narrowly missing her. She was unhurt.

Former Neighbor

Authorities who identified Jones as a former neighbor, said they found Jones standing on the sidewalk outside Mrs. Roberts' home as they arrived to investigate the shooting. Holding a bolt-action shotgun, Jones told investigators, "I just took a shot at a woman and I meant to hit her."

Mrs. Roberts told police she was alone in her house doing the family wash when Jones walked in. She saw the gun and ran out the back door, and as she started up a neighbor's porch steps, Mrs. Roberts said, Jones fired at her.

Police said Jones blamed Mrs. Roberts for his domestic difficulties. He was arrested by Officers Walter P. Crabtree and W. Carl Stouffer. He had been held in City Jail until yesterday.

Shot In Chest

The second shooting last week occurred Thursday near Rawlings. O'Haver is charged with assault with intent to kill Frederick Guthrie, 27, of Rawlings, who was admitted to Memorial Hospital Thursday night with a .32 caliber bullet wound in his chest. His condition was reported satisfactory last night.

The shooting occurred while O'Haver's wife was in the office of Trial Magistrate William Meagher at Cresaptown, obtaining an assault warrant against him.

State police said Guthrie, a neighbor of the O'Havers who live off Route 220 in the Fort Hill section two miles south of Rawlings, was shot following an argument which developed into a fight.

O'Haver accused Guthrie of throwing a stone against the side of his house during the afternoon.

O'Haver surrendered to Lt. W. E. O'Hara, and had been held in the county jail until yesterday.

Strike Reports Called Unfounded State Meet Set By Holy Name

Officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers of America (CIO), reported yesterday afternoon that current strike rumors are unfounded.

William G. Rice, president, said the contract negotiating committee of the union is still meeting with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company on a day to day basis.

The union's contract would have expired on March 1 but has been extended daily to allow contract negotiations to continue.

Members of the union committee who are negotiating the pact are Rice, Ralph C. Beard and C. E. O'Baker, for production workers, and Leo Barkman and George Simmons, for maintenance departments.

Work on the contract revisions began early in January. The union represents some 1,900 workers at the local tire plant.

Union officials declined to comment on the progress of the contract talks, saying any such reports are to be made as joint company-union statements.

Informed sources said last night, however, that considerable progress was made yesterday on unresolved issues.

Cresaptown Adds 16 New Registrants

After sitting for 12 hours yesterday, registrars added only 16 prospective new voters for the impending Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association.

The new registrants bring to 484 the number of Cresaptown citizens who may vote in the election between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. Monday, April 6. There are five candidates for two posts as officers of the association which operates Cresaptown's water system. They are Philip Bowman and Joseph Ferguson, incumbents, and Arthur Ferguson, Louis Misholland and Charles Bird.

Water Meeting Set

Beall, Butler To Urge Parkway Decision Now

Big Delegation To Attend Hearing

ANNAPOLIS, March 9 (AP)—Supporters for the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway have an imposing array of witnesses lined up for its hearing tomorrow before the Senate Finance Committee.

U. S. Sens. Beall and Butler and Rep. Hyde, Maryland Republicans, are scheduled to appear in support of the scenic driveway along the path of the historic old canal from Hancock to Cumberland.

Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany), pushing the project, said others appearing in its behalf include Harry Thompson of the National Park Service and numerous Allegany County groups, such as the county commissioners, chambers of commerce and sportsmen and labor organizations.

Project Authorized

The plan calls for the federal government to build a two and three lane highway along the old canal tract, with the state supplying about 4,000 additional acres along the path to provide sufficient right-of-way.

Thompson told Kimble today the construction cost—which the federal government would pay—would run about 8 million, at current building costs, with another million to go toward restoring historic sites and construction of the terminal at Cumberland. Congress has authorized the parkway but has not yet appropriated the funds.

Kimble said the state's share—providing the additional acreage—would run from $200,000 to $300,000. The bill provides for the money to come from unspent funds of the State Roads Commission.

Senators Urge Speed

Kimble said Sen. Beall hoped to get legislation through this session of Congress so that a 4 million dollar appropriation for the start of construction could be included in next year's federal budget.

Russell H. McCain, Roads Commission chairman, is on record as favoring the project. He said his department could find the necessary funds without asking for an additional grant from the state.

The original parkway plan, calling for a highway the entire length of the old canal from Washington to Cumberland, ran into varying amounts of opposition from groups in Frederick, Montgomery and parts of Washington County.

Plan Is Changed

Kimble said those groups were not expected to buck the present plan, as it calls for the parkway going down only as far as Hancock. The opposition groups, mostly sportsmen, contended the construction of the parkway would destroy wildlife habitat along the canal and Potomac River.

They were joined in this reaction by the State Board of Natural Resources. But Kimble said he believed the board would not object to the Cumberland-to-Hancock plan.

To Urge Plan

Among the local delegation which will urge speedy action on the parkway plan are Harry Hickie, business agent of the Operating Engineers, and Kenneth Grimes, business agent of the Laborers Union. Both are representing the Building and Construction Trades Council of Allegany County.

Celanese Wage Talks Planned

Wage discussions between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), and the Celanese Corporation will begin soon, Neil Toey, president, announced yesterday.

Toey said the date for the opening of negotiations has not been set, but that the first meeting will be held by next Wednesday, 10 days after the formal notice was submitted.

The union has requested the Celanese Corporation to reopen the contract for revision of the wage schedule as provided in the contract which became effective August 8, 1952. The pact can also be reopened for wage talks on December 8.

The General Committee of Local 1874 will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the union hall.

Other union activities include the election of officers by departments of the union.

Cumberland District Sets Scouters Night

Program helps for Scout and Cub unit leaders for April activities will be presented under the supervision of the commissioners staff. H. C. Heineman, district chairman, will preside.

4-H Recreation Night Planned March 28

Ronald Grabenstein is general chairman. Eugene J. Hopkins will direct the games.

W. Va. House Passes Fair Labor Bill

Intended To Halt Race Discrimination

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 9 (AP)—The House gave thumping approval today to a bill to create a Fair Employment Practices Commission for West Virginia. The vote was 90-3.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where it faces an uncertain fate.

The proposed FEPC would have power to seek circuit court action to halt racial discrimination in job-hiring.

The measure, sponsored by the two Negro members of the House, Del. Elliott (D-Logan) and Mrs. Drewry (D-McDowell), was the subject of partisan debate at Saturday's session.

This developed when Del. Rairden (R-Mason) sought to amend the bill to prohibit discrimination on political grounds, or because of the worker's union status.

Meanwhile, the Senate interrupted its session for a 30-minute secret caucus of the 22 majority Democrats on budget and financial matters.

Study Pay Raises

Verbal Clash Marks School Bill Hearing

Business Men Oppose School Building Bill

Discuss Industrial Highway Program

The South Cumberland Business Men's Association yesterday discussed three important legislative bills in which it has been interested, and decided to ask for changes in two of the measures.

A telegram from the organization was sent to State Sen. Robert B. Kimble and Del. Charles M. See, chairman of the county delegation, asking that:

1. The mandatory $6 million school-building bill be scrapped and a $2 million program "in accordance with recommendations of the County Commissioners and the Board of Education" be substituted for it.

2. The recently enacted Industrial Expansion Act be amended to provide tax exemption on improvements and expansions costing $5,000 or more. The original bill provided a $25,000 limit, but the delegation dropped the qualifying figure to $10,000 in the final bill which was signed last week by Gov. McKeldin.

The association also heard city officials discuss a plan to provide an industrial highway embodying a cross-town bridge and costing about $8 million.

Ask School Compromise

The proposed school expansion bill came under fire at the meeting after James G. Weber pointed out that the mandatory act, on which a hearing was held yesterday in Annapolis, would force the county to float about $1,500,000 worth of bonds each year for the next six years in order to build and expand schools. No referendum would be provided.

Weber said the bill, if passed, would double the county's bonded indebtedness and obligate future county commissioners to expenditures in which they would have no voice.

He suggested, instead, that the program be reduced to a two-year, $2 million plan and that more funds be sought in 1955.

Industrial Bill Discussed

Mayor Roy W. Eves discussed the proposed industrial highway and cross-town viaduct, both of which are included in the State Roads Commission's controversial 12-year road construction program for the state.

The Mayor said there is nothing in the present program to insure that the viaduct would remain a part of the program if the General Assembly decides to authorize the SRC to float bonds and go ahead with the projects.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said engineering, surveying and rights of way for the cross-town bridge would cost $100,000 during 1954-57. Construction from Willowbrook Road to Walnut Lane during 1957-61 would cost $3,000,000. The third phase of construction would start in 1961.

Provides Loop Route

The industrial highway, to cost $1,200,000, would join State Route 51 (Oldtown Road) at Evitts Creek, with Thomas Street, by way of Fifth Street, providing a belt route around the South Cumberland industrial and business section.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson discussed financial aspects of the project.

Forty-five members attended the meeting, which was held in Grace Methodist Church recreation room. The next meeting will be held Monday, March 23 at 6 p. m.

Celanese Issues Profit Report

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Celanese Corp. of America today reported 1952 net income of $9,214,387, equal to 77 cents a share, compared with $24,800,263, or $3.56, the previous years.

Sales volume declined from $202,651,014 in 1951 to $166,711,033 last year.

In the annual report to stockholders, the company said:

"The evils of scarce buying and accumulation of inventories arising at the beginning of the Korean War have been difficult to overcome."

"We had looked for a substantial recovery in 1952, which materialized in the third quarter but thereafter tapered off. At the present time there has been moderate improvement."

Weather

Warm sun sent the temperature up to an official high of 40 at Constitution Park and a good deal of the weekend snow was melted yesterday. The day's low was 18 degrees and 8:30 o'clock last night the reading was 32 degrees. For today the prediction is for a little warmer weather followed by rain or snow in Western Maryland in the late afternoon.

Compromise Plan Is Submitted By Commissioners

(Special To The News)

Several heated verbal exchanges between members of the County Delegation and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners featured a three-hour hearing yesterday on House Bill 441, which would authorize and direct the County Commissioners to borrow $6,000,000 in the next six years to finance a 14-point county school construction program.

About 150 county residents—130 of them from Westernport and Luke—attended the session in the House of Delegates chamber in Annapolis.

Except for the commissioners and their attorney all spokesmen at the hearing said they were in favor of the proposal.

Areas Represented

Also represented at yesterday's session were LaVale, Oldtown, Flintstone and spokesmen for the Carver High School and Lincoln School parents' groups.

Chief spokesmen for the opposition were Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the Board of County Commissioners, who said he had an alternate bill which would answer the objections of the commissioners.

Instead of a mandatory bill, he would offer an enabling act, which would simply give the commissioners the authority to issue the bonds.

And rather than authorize issuance of $6,000,000 in bonds, his proposal would limit the issue to $3,000,000 over a two-year period. The commissioners would have to match the county's $3,000,000 with a like amount in Federal and/or state funds. He believes the commissioners' plan is a "conservative and safe program" that will preserve the county's credit rating.

Before Getty talked, some 12 or so persons spoke in behalf of the bill.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who attended yesterday's hearing, informed the citizens that he would support House Bill 441 if it gets favorable action from the House of Delegates. The six members of the County Delegation did not commit themselves on how they stood on the school financing program.

Bill Not A "Dream"

Charles M. See, chairman of the County Delegation, who presided at the hearing, began the meeting by stressing that the delegates did not "dream up" the bill. His remark was a pointed reference to a statement made last Friday by the County Commissioners that House Bill 441 was an "autocratic, emotional and ill-conceived" approach to the school construction program. He said it was exactly the program that was presented to the delegates by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

After his opening remarks, See introduced Webster who spoke in behalf of the program for about 30 minutes. Webster contended that the construction is "three years past due" and had been delayed because of industrial adversity in the county. He asserted that he had reviewed a program as originally prepared by former Superintendent Charles L. Kopp and had studied it school by school since taking office last July 1 to ascertain the "pressure points" in the system. He added that he was further guided by the school census conducted last October.

Upon questioning by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Webster said "I would hate to start a building program and then after two years have to stop it. Therefore I favor a mandatory bill."

State Need Cited

Kenneth R. Malcolm, president of the County Board of Education, was the next speaker. He was followed by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, who said he was not familiar with the details of the Allegany County school needs.

He did assert that throughout the state today there are more children under the age of six years than are enrolled in the first 10 grades of public schools. This need for additional facilities must be met, he explained.

Other speakers were V. Browne Kookan, Westernport; Mrs. Raymond Reeves, former president of the Hammond Street PTA, Westernport; Mayor Okey Michael of Westernport; Mrs. Robert Derham, president of the Westernport and Luke Civic Club; Earl E. Manges, representing the Flintstone PTA; Floyd Buser, president of the Allegany County Farm Bureau; John W. Wormack, representing the Carver School PTA; Richard Evans of Frostburg, speaking in behalf of a new Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg; Mrs. Edgar T. Duke, LaVale School PTA; F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024, AFL, and Homer E. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county school system.

Getty's remarks in opposition were supported by the three commissioners, William H. Lemmert, president; James Orr and James Holmes.

Ham Dinner Planned

A St. Patrick's Day ham dinner will be served at McKendree Methodist Church, 229 North Centre Street, on Thursday at 5 p. m. by the Young Adult Fellowship.

Civil Service Bill Solution Is Council Aim

City Attorney's Plan Turned Down

If a compromise cannot be reached on an "employees" and city Civil Service bill within the next few days, the city measure will be printed, sent to Annapolis and a hearing asked.

The Mayor and Council agreed to this suggestion by Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder yesterday morning after it had defeated 3-2 another motion by Mrs. Roeder to adopt the city bill prepared by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

The so-called "employees" bill, prepared by Attorney Thomas B. Berry of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association, contains, in addition to Civil Service provisions, certain working condition clauses.

Jones is accused of firing a 20-gauge shotgun blast at Mrs. Helen Mary Roberts, 36, of 9 Bellevue Street, Wednesday. The blast, which was fired at Mrs. Roberts as she fled to a neighbor's house, whizzed past her head narrowly missing her. She was unhurt.

Former Neighbor

Authorities who identified Jones as a former neighbor, said they found Jones standing on the sidewalk outside Mrs. Roberts' home as they arrived to investigate the shooting. Holding a bolt-action shotgun, Jones told investigators, "I just took a shot at a woman and I meant to hit her."

Mrs. Roberts told police she was alone in her house during the family wash when Jones walked in. She saw the gun and ran out the back door, and as she started up a neighbor's porch steps, Mrs. Roberts said, Jones fired at her.

Police said Jones blamed Mrs. Roberts for his domestic difficulties. He was arrested by Officers Walter P. Crabtree and W. Carl Stouffer. He had been held in City Jail until yesterday.

Shot In Chest

The second shooting last week occurred Thursday near Rawlings. O'Haver is charged with assault with intent to kill Frederick Guthrie, 27, of Rawlings, who was admitted to Memorial Hospital Thursday night with a .32 caliber bullet wound in his chest. His condition was reported satisfactory last night.

The shooting occurred while O'Haver's wife was in the office of Trial Magistrate William Meagher at Cresaptown, obtaining an assault warrant against him.

State police said Guthrie, a neighbor of the O'Havers who live off Route 220 in the Fort Hill section two miles south of Rawlings, was shot following an argument which developed into a fight.

O'Haver accused Guthrie of throwing a stone against the side of his house during the afternoon.

O'Haver surrendered to Lt. W. E. O'Hara, and had been held in the county jail until yesterday.

Strike Reports Called Unfounded State Meet Set By Holy Name

Officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers of America (CIO), reported yesterday afternoon that current strike rumors are unfounded.

William G. Rice, president, said the contract negotiating committee of the union is still meeting with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company on a day to day basis.

The union's contract would have expired on March 1 but has been extended daily to allow contract negotiations to continue.

Members of the union committee who are negotiating the pact are Rice, Ralph C. Beard and C. E. O'Baker, for production workers, and Leo Barkman and George Simmons, for maintenance departments.

Work on the contract revisions began early in January. The union represents some 1,900 workers at the local tire plant.

Union officials declined to comment on the progress of the contract talks, saying any such reports are to be made as joint company-union statements.

Informed sources said last night, however, that considerable progress was made yesterday on unresolved issues.

Beall, Butler To Urge Parkway Decision Now

Big Delegation To Attend Hearing

ANNAPOLIS, March 9 (AP)—Supporters for the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway have an imposing array of witnesses lined up for its hearing tomorrow before the Senate Finance Committee.

U. S. Sens. Beall and Butler and Rep. Hyde, Maryland Republicans, are scheduled to appear in support of the scenic driveway along the path of the historic old canal from Hancock to Cumberland.

Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany), pushing the project, said others appearing in its behalf include Harry Thompson of the National Park Service and numerous Allegany County groups, such as the county commissioners, chambers of commerce and sportsmen and labor organizations.

Project Authorized

The plan calls for the federal government to build a two and three lane highway along the old canal tract, with the state supplying about 4,000 additional acres along the path to provide sufficient right-of-way.

Thompson told Kimble today the construction cost—which the federal government would pay—would run about $8 million, at current building costs, with another million to go toward restoring historic sites and construction of the terminal at Cumberland. Congress has authorized the parkway but has not yet appropriated the funds.

Kimble said the state's share—providing the additional acreage—would run from $200,000 to $300,000. The bill provides for the money to come from unspent funds of the State Roads Commission.

Sensors Urge Speed

Kimble said Sen. Beall hoped to get legislation through this session of Congress so that a 4 million dollar appropriation for the start of construction could be included in next year's federal budget.

Russell H. McCain, Roads Commission chairman, is on record as favoring the project. He said his department could find the necessary funds without asking for an additional grant from the state.

The original parkway plan, calling for a highway the entire length of the old canal from Washington to Cumberland, ran into varying amounts of opposition from groups in Frederick, Montgomery and parts of Washington County.

Plan Is Changed

Kimble said those groups were not expected to buck the present plan, as it calls for the parkway going down only as far as Hancock. The opposition groups, mostly sportsmen, contended the construction of the parkway would destroy wildlife habitat along the canal and Potomac River.

They were joined in this reaction by the State Board of Natural Resources. But Kimble said he believed the board would not object to the Cumberland-to-Hancock plan.

To Urge Plan

Among the local delegation which will urge speedy action on the parkway plan are Harry Hickie, business agent of the Operating Engineers, and Kenneth Grimes, business agent of the Laborers Union. Both are representing the Building and Construction Trades Council of Allegany County.

Plans for the state Holy Name Society convention April 26 at Rivera Beach, near Baltimore, were discussed Sunday at the quarterly meeting of the Western Maryland Section in St. Patrick's Social Center.

A spokesman said a caravan of members from Allegany and Garrett counties will attend the conference, at which the Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, archbishop of Baltimore, will speak.

Among the principal speakers will be Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, auxiliary bishop of New York, and director of the propagation of the Faith in the United States.

Thomas F. Conlon, president of the Western Maryland Section, presided at Sunday's meeting of district parishes. Talks were given by Rev. J. Chester Griffith of St. Bernard's Church, Baltimore, diocesan director of the Holy Name; Rev. Maurice J. Wolfe, of St. Thomas Church, Baltimore, associate director of the Junior Holy Name in the diocese, and Donald S. Payne, Baltimore, president of the diocesan Holy Name Society.

The next meeting of the Western Maryland Section will be held in June at St. Peter's, Oakland. Sunday morning, the three spoke at the annual communion breakfast of St. Patrick's Holy Name Society. The Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkeny, pastor of St. Patrick's and rural dean of Western Maryland, also attended the program in the social center with approximately 250 members.

Norman P. Fearnow, president of St. Patrick's unit, presided and John F. O'Rourke was toastmaster. Breakfast was prepared by Women of the parish with Mrs. Bernard F. Lewis in charge.

The General Committee of Local 1874 will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the union hall.

Other union activities include the election of officers by departments of the union.

Cumberland District Sets Scouters Night

W. Va. House Passes Fair Labor Bill

Intended To Halt Race Discrimination

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 9 (AP)—The House gave thumping approval today to a bill to create a Fair Employment Practices Commission for West Virginia. The vote was 90-3.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where it faces an uncertain fate.

The proposed FEPC would have power to seek circuit court action to halt racial discrimination in job-hiring.

The measure, sponsored by the two Negro members of the House, Del. Elliott (D-Logan) and Mrs. Drewry (D-McDowell), was the subject of partisan debate at Saturday's session.

This developed when Del. Rairden (R-Mason) sought to amend the bill to prohibit discrimination on political grounds, or because of the worker's union status.

Meanwhile, the Senate interrupted its session for a 30-minute secret caucus of the 22 majority Democrats on budget and financial matters.
